31. MEMORAND', that the XIII day of the said moneth of November, it was shewed to the Duke of York, the Kynges Lieutenaunt in this present Parlement, and to the Lordes Spirituell and Temporell, by the mouthe of Burley, accompanied with notable nombre of the Coes, in name of all the Communes. That howe it had liked the Kynges Highnesse for certayn causes hym moevyng, to assigne the said Duk of York to be his Lieutenaunt in this present Parlement, and to procede in matiers of Parliament, as in the Kynges letters theruppon made and late radde before the said Communes it is playnly conteyned, and that the said Duke of York had taken uppon hym so to procede. Wherefore it was thought by theym that were commen for the Communes of this lande, that if for suche causes the Kyng herafre myght not entende to the protection and defence of this lande, that it shuld like the Kyng by th'advys of his said Lieutenaunt and the Lordes, to ordeigne and purvey suche an hable persone, as shuld mowe entende to the defence and protection of the said lande, and this to be doon as sone as it myght be, and they to have knowelege therof, to that entent that they myght sende to theym for whom they were commen to this present Parlement knowelege, who shuld be Protectour and Defensour of this lande, and to whom they shuld mowe have recours to sue for remedie of injuries and wronges done to theym. And also where there ben grete and grevous riotres doon in the Westre Countrey, betwene Th'erle of Devonshire, and the Lord Boneville, by the whiche som Men have be muredred, some robbed, and Children and Wymen taken: It is thought that if suche Protector and Defensor were had, that suche riotres and injuries shuld be souner punysshed, Justice largely ministred, and the lawe more duely to procede: Wherefore it myght lyke the said Lieutenaunte and all the Lordes, to be goode meanes unto the Kynges Highnesse, that suche a persone myght be purveide fore and had. And theruppon it was answered by the Archebischop of Caunterbury, Chaunceler of Englund, that the said Lieutenaunt and all the Lordes, wolde comon and delibre uppon their desire, and they shuld have suche aunswere as shuld be pleasyng to God, and profite to the land.

De eodem.

32. ITEM, the Saturday, the xv day of the said moneth of Novembr, the said Burley, accompanied in grete nombre of the Communes, in name of all their felawes, come before the said Lieutenaunt and all the Lordes in this present Parlement, openyng before them; that howe uppon Thursday last past, it was desired by them that were comen for the Communes of this lande, that for asmoche as it liked the Kynges Highnesse for certeyn causes meovyng hym, and that he myght not personelly entende to procede in matiers of Parliament, to assigne the Duc of York to be his Lieutenaunt in this his high Court of Parliament, to procede in suche matiers, as in the Kynges Letters Patentess theruppon made, radde and declared before the said Communes of this lande, is plainly conteyned. That it myght like their good Lordshippes, to be good meanes to the Kynges Highnesse, that if he for suche causes myght not personelly herastre entende to the defense of this lande, to ordeyn and provide an hable persone to be Protector and Defensor of this lande. It is yit thought to them that be come to this high Court of Parlement for the Cōes of this lande, that where there be mony grete and grevous riotres done in the West Contrey, where som Men ben robbed and som slayn, and mony grevously hurte and injured, if the Kyng shuld be vexed and troubled with suche matiers, and that his people shuld have recours to his Highnesse to complayne, and sue to hym for their grevaunces, matiers and suetes, it shuld be overe grevous and tedious to his Highnesse, and that there must be a persone to whom the people of this lande may have recours to sue to for remedie of their injuries; for these causes, they that be comen for the Communes of this lande to this high Court of Parliament, required the said Lieutenaunt and all the Lordes, that it myght like their good Lordshippes to be good meanes to the Kynges Highnesse, that suche persone myght be ordeyned and purveide, that shuld mowe entende to the protection and defence of this lande, and that they myght have knowelege of hym, his power and auctorite, the whiche shuld be to them right grete comfort and consolation. Whereuppon it was aunswere by th'assent of the said Lieutenaunt and Lordes, by the mouthe of the said Chaunceler, that the said Lieutenaunt and all the Lordes wold comon uppon their desire, trustyng to God they shuld have therof good and comfortable aunswere.

Electio Protectoris.

33. ITEM, this same day, afre the voidyng of the said Burley and of them accompanied with hym out of the Parliament Chambre, this question was axed by the said Chaunceler of the Lordes; seyng, my Lordes, for asmoche as the Communes have made twies their desire and request, and that it is understood that they wold not further procede in matiers of Parliament, to the tyme that they have answere of their desire and request, what is thought to your wysdomes that shuld be done in this behalfe? To the whiche question it was aunswere by all the Lordes: That for the causes above meoved by the said Communes, it were right expedient and behovefull, that suche a Protector and Defensor shuld be had as the Communes desired. And than the said Chaunceler seide to all the Lordes: fith it is expedient and behovefull that suche Protector and Defensor shuld be had, asked who that persone shuld be; and that it shuld lyke them to name hym. And there it was agreed by all the Lordes Spirituelx and Temporelx, every Lord severally yevyng his voice and assent, considered the grete noblenesse, sadnesse and wysdome of the Duc of York, the sad governaunce and polletique rule had in this lande, the tyme that he was last Protector and Defensor of the land, that he shuld nowe take the charge uppon hym ayen, afre semblable presidences as he had it before: to the whiche the said Duc of York aunswere, praiyng and desiryng all the Lordes, that for asmoche as he knewe well that he was no persone hable neithir in wysdome ne in governaunce to take so grete and chargefull occupation uppon hym, to name and take anothir persone more able to so grete charge than he was, and be fully therof to be discharged: The whiche desire the Lordes in no wyse wold admitte. And than the said Duc of York seyde, that if so were that he shuld nedes take that occupation uppon hym, but onely for the grete trust that he had in the Lordes, that he wuld have of them in that behalfe supportation, good assistance, counseill and aide, and also certeyn protestations, and that he myght theruppon be advised.

34. 7. MEMORAND', quod quedam Petitio exhibita fuit prefato Domino Regi, in presenti Parlamento, sub eo qui sequitur tenore verborum.

PLEASE it youre Highnes to calle to youre noble remembraunce, howe Ye had Richard Duc of York in his yong age, in youre most high presence and noble Court, and hym all that tyme cherished and favoured; and afterward at gretter age, for the love, trust and affiance that Ye had in his persone, made hym youre Lieutenaunt of youre Realme of Fraunce and Duchie of Normandie, and created his 11 eldest sonnes Erles, and graunted hym Offices and grete benefettes, not oonly to hym, but also to his at contemplation of hym, so that it coude not be thought a subget of his estate of so litell deserte, to have had more cause to have been true, obeisaunt, and diligent to serve and love his Sovereigne Lord then he had. These benefettis and many other that myght be rehersed notwithstanding, howe falsely and traiterously he hath acquite hym to youre Highnes, ayenst God, nature, all trouth, humanite, and contrary to his Ligeaunce, howe be it youre Grace list not to take displeasure therof; yet it is openly known to youre Liege people his subtil, and sayng youre moost high reverence, his fals and traiterous ymaginations, conspirasies, feates, and diligent labours born up with colourable lies, compassed by the most unherd meanes that ever did eny Subget to his Soverayne Lorde. First, he beyng in Irland, by youre graunte youre Lieutenaunt there, at which tyme John Cade, otherwise called Jakke Cade youre grete Traitour, made a grete insurrection ayenst youre Highnes in youre Shire of Kent, to what entent, and for whome it was after confessed by some of hem his adherentes whan they shuld dye, that is to sey, to have exalted the seid Duc, ayenst all reason, lawe and trouth, to the estate that God and nature hath ordeyned You and youre succession to be born to. And within short tyme after, he comme oute of Ireland with grete bobaunce and inordinate people, to youre Paleis of Westmynster unto youre presence, with grete multitude of people harneised and arraide in manere of werre, and there bette downe the speres and walles in youre Chambre, havng no consideration to youre high presence, by the which myght be understoud his disposition; at which tyme he was answered by You to his desires and demaundes, that it semed to all youre true subgetts, that the spiret of wisdom of God was in You: And he so answered departed fro You than confused, and youre true Liege people that herde therof it gretely rejoysed. And after this, in dyvers Parliamentis, he made crafty labours and desires to the amenufng of youre power and auctorite Roiall, which were understoud to many of youre true people, sayng God put aswete in the hertes of youre Lordes, as of youre true Commons, accordyng to their duetes, to lette by all meanes eny thyng contrary to youre prosperite and wele, so that his malicious and traitours purpos was not acheved. And over that, he contynuyng in his malicious entent, by subtil meanes thought to acheve his purpos by myght, wrote letters to many Citees, Boroughes and Tounes of this youre noble Realme, and to many pryvat persones of oon estate and other, colored under a pretense of a wele to have made a comon' insurrection, to th'entent to have made a feld beside Dertford in the Shire of Kent, ayenst You, Sovereigne Lord, to have distroied youre moost noble persone; but understonded by hym youre Knyghtly corage, and myght of youre hoost, he, beyng of noo power to withstond You, submytted hym in forme as was devised; and after was sworne, of his fre motion and desire, in the Cathedrall Chirche of Seint Poule in youre Citee of London, upon the blisfed Sacrament and used it, and upon the holy Crosse, and also upon the holy Evaungelies by hym touched; Ye, Sovereigne Lord, beyng present, the Cardynall than Archebischop of York, Dukes, Bischops, Erles and Barons, fewe absent of all youre lond and people, so moche that bifore nor sithen can not be remembered so moche people at oon tyme feyne in that Chirche, which Othe by hym sworn as foloweth, was subscribed with his owen hande with his signe manuell, and also sealed by hym with the Scale of his armes, and so doon by his handes delyvered to You in fourme as foloweth.

9. I RICHARD Duc of York, confesse and byknowe, that I am and aught to be humble Subget and Liegeman unto You my Sovereigne Lord Kyng Herry the Sext, and ought therefore to bere You feith and trouth, as to my Soverayne and Liege Lord, and so shall doo all the dayes unto my lyves ende; and shall not at eny tyme will nor assent, that eny thyng be attempted or doon ayenst youre moost Roiall persone, but what so ever I shall have knowlege of eny such thynges ymagined or purposed, I shall with all the spede and diligens possible to me to make, that your Highnes shall have knowlege yerof, and ever doo all that shall be possible to me, to the withstondyng therof to the utterest of my lyf. I shall not in no wise eny thyng take upon me ayenst youre Roiall estate, or the obeisaunce that is due therto, nor suffre eny other man do, as ferforth as it shall lye in my power to lette it. And also I shall comme at youre commaundement, whan so ever I shall be called by the same, in humble and obeisaunt wise, but if I be letted by sikenesse or ymptencie of my persone, or by such other causes as shal be thought resonable to You, my Soverayn Lord. I shall never hereafter take upon me to gader eny Rowtes, or make eny assemblie of youre people, without youre commaundement or licence, or my lafull defence: In the interpretation of which my lafull defence, and declaration therof, I shall report me at all tymes unto youre Highnes, and if the case require unto my Peres: Nor eny thyng attempt by wey of faite ayenst eny of youre Subgettes, of what estate, degre or condition they bee; but whan so ever I shall fele myself wronged or greved, I shall sue humbly for remedye unto your Highnes, and procede after the cours of your lawes, and in noon otherwise, sauf in myne owne lafull defence in maner above-said. And shall in all thyng above-said and other, have me unto youre Highnes, as an humble and a true Subget ought to have hym to his Soverayn Lord. All these thynges above-said I promitte truly to observe and kepe, by the holy Evangelies conteyned in this Boke that I lay my hande upon, and by the holy Crosse that I here touche, and by the blessed Sacrament of oure Lordes body that I shall now with his mercy receyve. And over this, I aggre me and woll, that yf I at eny tyme hereafter, as with the grace of oure Lorde I never shall, eny thyng attempt, by wey of fait or otherwise, ayenst
yours

His Oath to the King.

A. D. 1459. 3rd Hen. VI. your Roiall Estate or Obeysaunce that I ought therto, or eny thyng I take upon me, othirwise than is above expressed, I from that tyme forth be unable to almaner worship, estate or dignite, be it such as I nowe occupie, or eny other that myght growe unto me in eny wife. And this that I here have promitted and sworn, procedeth of myne owne desire and fre volunte, and by noo constraynt nor coercion. In witnes of all the which thynges abovementioned, I Richard Duk of York abovementioned, subscribe me with myne owne hande, and seall this with myne owne Seall &c.

His Confederacy with the Earls of Warwick and Salisbury.

10. AND after this, the seid Duk of York continuing in his seid malicious and traitorous purpose, confedered hymself with Richard Erle of Warrewyk, and Richard Erle of Salesbury, to which 11 Erles Ye had shewed your grace and bounteous grauntes, in right ample wise; in so moche Ye graunted to the Erle of Warrewyk, preemynence above all Erles of youre londe, with other grete graces, makynge hym joynt in dyvers Offices with his Fadre: And to the Erle of Salesbury, not only to be Warden of youre West Marches, with suerte of payement by Patent, not accustomed bifore, but also made hym Justice of youre Forestis byyonde Trent, Capitall Stiward of youre Duchie of Lancastre of all the North; and over that, the Constabularies and Maister Forsterhip of Pountfret and Galtres, with many other both of youre Croune and of youre seid Duchie: In so moche that he and his had in rule, all youre Castelles and honourable Offices, fro Trent northward; savynge the keypyng of youre Castell of Knareburgh, that Sir William Plompton hath for terme of his lyf, after whos decesse the keypyng therof was by You graunted to the seid Erle of Salesbury. Yet all this notwithstanding, and also youre high commaundement of the contrary, they assembled theym togidre with grete multitude of people harneised, and other abillementis of Werre, as Gones and other, and come to the Toune of Seint Albones in youre Shire of Hertford, where Ye, Soverayn Lord, were present, and youre Baner displayed there, and there they falsely and traiterously rered Werre ayenst You, by the which youre Roiall persone was sore hurte, and in grete perell of youre lif: And also they slewe dyvers Lordes of youre blode, that is to sey, the Duc of Somerset, and the Erle of Northumberland, and the Lord Clifford, Knyghtes and Squiers, with other youre Liege people, and many of theym hurte, robbed and dispoilled. And the hurtyng of youre moost Roiall persone, can never oute of the hertes of youre true Liege people. Neverthelesse, Soverayn Lord, Ye preferrynge Mercy bifore Justice, for pacification of youre Roialme, and in especially atte reverence of God, auctor of peas, and Fadre of mercy, toke such meanes in that bihalf, that they stode as bifore under youre protection and lawes; and for there shuld not growe a gretter inconvenience therof, Ye gaf in commaundement to certayne of youre Prelates, and Lordes of youre blode, that they by the Counseill of youre Jugges, shuld in youre bihalf labour the meanes of parfit accorde, bitwene these moost unkynde Duc, and Erles of Warrewyk and Salesbury, on that oon partie, and the Duc of Somerset, the Erle of Northumberland, and the Lord Clifford, on that other partie; whos Faders there in youre presence, for their trouthe were slayne, in perpetuell commendation of theym; so that synall tranquillite and rest myght have ensued, and unyte in the hertes of youre Lordes, to verray obeysaunce of God and You. In accomplishment wherof Ye come to your Paleis of Westm', and there by the agreement of the seid parties, solempnely gave a decre and laude betwene theym at that tyme, to the grete rejoysynge of youre people. Furthermore, Soverayne Lord,

11. The Battle of St. Albans.

like it youre Highnes to remembre, howe at youre Citee of Coventre, in youre grete Counseill holden there, after dyvers rehercels by youre Chaunceller of Englonde in youre moost high presence made to the seid Duc of York; the Duc of Bukyngham, on the bihalf of the Lordes Temporell, reherced full notably to make the seid Duc of York to understonde of what demeanynge he had been, and lete hym witte that he had no thyng to lene to, sauf oonly youre Grace, as more playnly is conteyned in an Acte therof made. And there and than the seid Duc of Bukyngham, and all other Lordes, knelyng on their knees bisought You, seyng the grete Jupartie for youre moost noble persone, and also the Lordes so often charged, and inquietynge so often the grete parte of your Realme, that it shuld not lyke You to shewe the seid Duc of York, nor noon other hereafter grace, if they attempted eschones to doo the contrary to youre Roiall estate, or inquietynge of youre Realme, and the Lordes therof, but to be punysshed after their deserte, and have as they deserved, aswell for the suerte of You, Soverayne Lord, as the generall suertee of all youre Lordes and people: To which it lyked You then to sey, that Ye wuld so doo, the seid Duc of York at the same tyme beyng present. Also it was enacted there, that no Lord shuld attempt by wey of fayt ayenst other, but in that he felde hym greved, he shuld compleyne hym unto youre Highnes, and to youre lawes, and by that meane have redresse and in noon otherwise, with more as is conteyned in the same Acte. The seid Duc of York there swore on the holy Evaungelies, and signed the Acte with his hande, and semblably the seid Erle of Warrewyk there swore and signed the same Acte; Copies of which Actes to this Bille been annexed. It is also to be remembred, after the graces and pardons by You given to this moost unkynde Duc of York, the Erle of Warrewyk, and the Erle of Salesbury, howe they laboured and devised the mervelous Acte of Parlement to be made, for the execrabil and moost detestable dede by theym doon at Seint Albones aforeseid: yet that youre Subgettis shuld thynk Ye called no thyng to mynde of tyme passed, youre high Grace made the seid Erle of Warrewyk Captaine of youre Toune and Castell of Caleis, and of the Marches there, in as ample fourme as had eny of your Uncles, or eny other Prynce or Lorde that ever was Captaine there. And over this, graunted the same Erle to have governance and rule of the See, and named hym youre grete Captaine of the See; and to the sustentation of this charge, graunted hym all the Tonnage and Pondage bi-longynge to You in eny wise, with m. li. by yere, to be taken by the handes of youre Receyvour of the Londes and Tenementes of youre seid Duchie of Lancastre, beyng in feoffement. These thynges thus reherced to youre Highnes, beside many other benefettis and graces to theym doon, the moost diabolique unkyndnesse, and wretched envye in theym, and moost unresonable appetite of such estate, as of reason ought not to be desired nor had by noon of theym, nor to noon erthely creature but to You alone, and to youre succession, in which oure Lord of his grace conserve it to the ende of the world. And on the other bihalf, their grete grauntes and benefettis to hem doon, wold have constrayned of reason eny resonable man, to have loved, served, and doon the uttermost that coude have be thought in his power, to hym that had so avaunced and preferred hym, and moost singularly his Soverayne Lord by whom he myght moost be worshipped, by which had shewed such bountees and magnificences to hem, and spared her mervelous offences so often doon, and venquised ther malice but oonly with mercy: and it is not to be forgotten the Othe and suerte that the Erle of Warrewyk made, signet of his hand, and sealed with his seale; the copie of wherof is annexed herto. Also to remembre

Othe and suerte swore, and signed of the seid Duc of Yorks hande, and sealed, of true and feithfull obeisaunce to You and youre succession, the which remayneth of record in youre Tresorie, as more largely it appereth in hem. And after these thinges doon, youre Highnes trustyng that tranquillite and due obeisaunce on the part of the same Duc of York, and Erles of Warrewyk and Salesbury, shuld have folowed, sent for theym dyvers tymes to come to youre Counseils, the which they disobeyed, and fayned pretended excuses of frivolous bisynesse, and yet by youre Highnes accepted, under which they enriched theymself by youre yiftes and grauntes, contynuyng in their purposed malicious and dampnable opynions, and fals and traiterous desires, of newe yet falsely and traiterously conspired and sought the tyme and meanes of accomplishment of their insaciat wille and desire, of destruction of You, Soverayne Lord, the Quene oure Soverayne Lady, and youre Succession, and of such of the Lordes of youre Land, as coude be thought by theym to abyde the uttermost jupartie of their lyves with You, contrarie to their opynyon: and albeit that the seid Duc of York, and the Erles of Warrewyk and Salesbury, were ferre in sondry places unto the tyme by theym appoynted, to th'entent it shuld lesse have been understound, and that lightlyer they myght have achieved their fals and traiterous purpose, after remoeyng of the Erle of Salesbury, howe soon the Erle of Warrewyk come from Caleis, not sparyng nor havynge no reward of the suerte of youre Tounes and Marches there, to take the grete nombre of ye Souledeours of the same Tounes with hym, was assembled with the Duc of York, and the Erle of Salesbury, by the which it sheweth clerely ynowe their purpose all oon in their fals trefon, as by the conclusion of their werkes it appereth evydently; for though it be soo they had purposed to have come to Kyllingworth, thyngyng Ye shuld not have knowlege bifore, but sodenly have fulfilled their traiterous entent; Ye by youre true Subgettis, ffile bifore the Erle of Salesburies departyng from the Castell of Middelham in youre Counte of York hiderward, Ye of youre Knyghtly courage, withoute delaye toke the Felde, with such of youre Lordes as than was nygh aboute You, and in Pryncely manere with grete celerite, spedde the journey toward the parties that the seid Erle of Salesbury drue and entended to come to, which caused hym to dyverte from his first enterprise and purpose, and to take another way to assemble with the seid Duc of York, and Erle of Warrewyk, that their comyng togider myght make a myghtryer felde. In which progresse the seid Erle of Salesbury, and Thomas Nevill, John Nevill, Knyghtes, sonnes to the seid Erle of Salesbury, Thomas Harryngton Knyght, John Conyers Knyght, Thomas Parre Knyght, William Stanley Squier, sonne to Thomas late Lord Stanley, and Thomas Meryng, late of Tong in the Shire of York Squier, accompanied with grete multitude of people, to the nombre of of v m. persones and moo, arraied in manere of Werre, with their Standartes displaied, entending to destroye youre moost Roiall persone, the Sunday next after the Fest of Seint Mathewe th'apostle, the xxxviiith yere of youre moost gracious reigne, at Blore in youre Shire of Stafford, in the felde of the same Tounes called Bloreheth, falsely and traiterously rered Werre ayenst You, and than and there in accomplishment of their fals and traiterous purpose, fough James Lord Audeley, and many other Knyghtes and Squiers, and other youre Liege people, and more despire didde, many of their throtes cutte, which were sent thider by your commaundement to resiste the fals and traiterous purpose of the Erle of Salesbury, and also toke John Lord Dudley, and other dyvers Knyghtes and Squiers prisoners, send thider also by youre commaundement; youre Highnes

And the Friday, in the Vigill of the Fest of the translation of Seint Edward Kyng and Confessour, the xxxviiith yere of youre moost noble reigne, at Ludesford in the Shire of Hereford, in the Felde of the same, the seid Richard Duc of York, Edward Erle of Marche, Richard Erle of Warrewyk, Richard Erle of Salesbury, Edmond Erle of Rutland, John Clynton Lord Clynton, John Wenlok Knyght, James Pykeryng Knyght, the seid John Conyers, and Thomas Parre, Knyghtes, John Bourghchier, Edward Bourghchier, Squiers, Nevues to the seid Duc of York, Thomas Colt late of London Gentilman, John Clay late of Chesthunt in the Shire of Hertf. Neverthelesse after exortation to all the Lordes, Knyghtes and Nobley in youre Host, made by youre owne mouth, in so witty, so knyghtly, so manly, in so comfortable wise, with so Pryncely apporte and assured maner, of which the Lordes and the people toke such joye and comfort, that all their desire was oonly to hast to fulfill youre corageous Knyghtly desire, albe the ympedymment of the weyes and streitnesse, and by lette of waters, it was nygh evyn or ye myght come to take grounde covenantable for youre Felde, displaied youre Baners, raunged youre Batailles, pighted youre Tentis; they beyng in the same Felde the same day and place, traiterously raunged in Bataill, fortified their chosen ground, their Carres with Gonnes sette bifore their Batailles, made their Escarmysches, laide their Enbushmentes there, sodenly to have taken the avauntage of youre Host. moderate covetise that ever was wrought in eny Realme: In so moche that by Robert Radelif, oon of the felau-ship of the seid Duc of York, and Erles of Warrewyk and Salesbury, it was confessed at his dying, that both the Coroune of Englonde and Duchie of Lancastre they wold have translated at their wille and pleasure. But Almyghty God, that seth the hertes of people, to whome is nothyng hidde, smote the hertes of the seid Duc of York and Erles sodenly from that most presumptuous pryde, to the most shamefull falle of Cowardise that coude be thought, so that aboute mydnyght than next fuyng they stalle away oute of the Felde, under colour they wold have refreshed theym awhile in the Toune of Ludlowe, levying their Standardes and Baners in their bataill directly ayenst youre Feld, fledde oute of the Toune unarmed, with fewe persones into Wales; understonndyng that youre people hertes assembled, was blynded by theym afore, were the more partie converted by Goddes inspiration to repent theym, and humbly submytte theym to You, and aske youre grace, which so didde the grete part; to whome, at oure Lordes reverence and Seint Edward, Ye ymparted largely youre grace. But, Soverayne Lord, it is not to be thought, but they and it had been possible to theym by eny meane, their wille was to have accomplished their cruell, malicious and traierous entent, to the fynall destruction of youre moost Roiall persone. And to shewe forthemore the contynuaunce of their moost detestable fixed traierous purpose and desire, ayenst You, Soveraine Lord, and youre Mageste Roiall, and the wele of youre Realme and Subgettes, some of theym been arryved in youre Toune of Caleis, wherby the Toune stondeth in jupartie, aswete as all the goodes of all youre Marchauntes being of the Staple there.

where it pleased youre Highnes to send to the Lord Stanley, by the servaunt of the same Lord fro Notyng-ham, charging hym that upon his feyth and legeaunce, he shuld come to youre Highnes in all haste, with such felysship as he myght make. The said Lord Stanley, notwithstanding the said commaundement, come not to you; but William Stanley his Brother went, with many of the said Lordes Servaunts and Tenaunts, grete nombre of people, to the Erle of Salisbury, which were with the same Erle at the distressyng of youre true Liege people at Bloreheth.

Also where youre said Highnes gafte in commaundement to youre self begotten sonne Edward Prynce of Wales, to assemble youre people and his Tenaunts, to resist the malice of youre Rebelles, and therupon the same noble Prynce sent to the said Lord Stanley, to come to hym in all haste possible, with such felysship as he myght make. The said Lord Stanley, puttyng the seid matter in delay, feynly excused hym, seying he was not thar redy. Howe be it of his owen confelloun, he had before a commaundement fro youre Highnes, to be redy to come to the same with his said felysship, upon a day warnyng; which delay and absence, was a grete cause of the losse and distresse of your seid people at Bloreheth.

Also where the seid Lord had sent his servaunt to oure Soverayne Lady the Quene, and to the seid noble Prynce to Chestre, seying that he shuld come to theym in all haste; and after that he sent to theym Richard Hokesley his servaunt, to Eggleshall, certifying theym that he wold come to theyme in all haste; and desired, for asmoche as he understode that he was had in jelosye, that he myght have the vaward ageyne the Erle of Salisbury, and his felysship; and the seid noble Prynce, be th'advise of his Counsell, consideryng that the felysship of the said Lord Stanley was fewer in nombre, than the felysship of the said Erle, willed and desired hym to come to the said noble Prynce and his felysship, that they beyng all togedyr, myght come to have assisted youre Highnes, which was promysed feithfully be his seid servaunt shuld be perfourmed in all haste; which notwithstanding was not perfourmed, but in defaute therof, youre people were distressed at Bloreheth aforesaid, as is well knowen. Howe be hit that the seid Lord Stanley, was within vi mile of the said Heth the same tyme, accompanied with ii m. men, and rested hym with the same felysship, be the space of iii dayes after at Newcastle, but vi myle oute of Eggleshall, where the Quene and the Prynce then were; and the said Lord Stanley, on the morne next after the distresse at Bloreheth, sent a letter for his excuse to oure Soverayne Lady the Quene, and the said noble Prynce; which said letter, your said Highnes had sent to hym, commaundyng hym by the same, to have come to youre said Highnes with his felysship in all haste: which came nethir to youre Highnes, to the Quene, nor to the seid Prynce, but soo departed home agayne.

Also when the seid Erle of Salisbury and his felysship, had distressed youre said people at Bloreheth, the said Lord Stanley sent a letter to the said Erle to Drayton, the same nyght, thankyng God of the good speede of the said Erle, rejoyfing hym gretely of the same, trustyng to God that he shuld be with the same Erle in other place, to stond hym in as good stede, as he shuld have doon yef he had been with theym there; which letter the seid Erle sent to Sir Thomas Haryngton, and he shewed hit openly, seying; Sirres, be mery, for yet we have moo frendis.

Also where as a Squier of the said Erles, on the Monday next after the said distresse, told to a Knyght of youres, which was taken prisoner by the felysship of the seid Erle at Bloreheth, that a man of the Lord Stanleys, had been with the seid Erle at Drayton, in the mornyng of the same day, and brought hym word fro the

And yef eny man wold resiste or lette the said Erle to come to your high presence, for his excuse, accordyng to th'entent of the said Erle; that than the said Lord Stanley and his felyship, shuld lyve and dye with the said Erle, ayenst his resistours.

Also where the said noble Prynce, in fullfylling of your high commaundement, sent as wele for your people and his Tenauntez in Werall Hundred, as in Maxfeld Hundred in Cheshire; the said people and Tenauntez, were lette by the said Lord Stanley, so that they myght not come to youre Highness, nor to ye presence of the said noble Prynce.

Also where a Servaunt and oon of the Cokys of the said Lorde Stanleys, was hurte atte Bloreheth, beyng with William Stanley, in the felyship of the said Erle of Salesbury, and left behynde at Drayton; declared openly to dyvers gentilmens of the felyshpe of Th'erlez of Shrewysbury, that he was sent to the said Erle of Salesbury, in the name of the said Lord Stanley, with moo of his felyship.

Also where certayne persones beyng of the lyvere and clothyng of the said Lord Stanley, were take at the Forest of Morff in Shropshire; the day afore their deth confessed, that they were commaunded in the name and behalve of the said Lord Stanley, to attend and awayte upon the said William Stanley, to assiste the said Erle in such matier as he intended to execute.

Of all which matiers doon and commytted by the said Lord Stanley, we youre said Commens accuse and enpeche hym; and pray youre moost high Regalie, that the same Lord be commytted to prison, there to abide after the fourme of lawe.

The Duke of York's Claim to the Crown.

10. MEMORAND, that the xvi day of October, the ixth daye of this present Parlement, the Counseill of the right high and myghty Prynce Richard Duc of York; brought into the Parlement Chambre a writyng, conteynynge the clayme and title of the right, that the seid Duc pretended unto the Coronas of Englonde and of Fraunce; and Lordship of Ireland, and the same writyng delyvered to the Right Reverent Fader in God George Bishop of Excestre, Chaunceller of Englonde, desyryng hym that the same writyng myght be opened to the Lordes Spirituelx and Temporelx assembled in this present Parlement; and that the seid Duc myght have brief and expedient answer therof: wheruppon the seid Chaunceller opened and shewed the seid desire to the Lordes Spirituelx and Temporelx, askyng the question of theym, whether they wold the seid writyng shuld be openly radde before theym or noo. To the which question it was answered and agreed by all the seid Lordes: In asmuche as every persone high and lowe, fuyng to this high Court of Parlement, of right must be herd, and his desire and Petition understande, that the said writyng shuld be radde and herd, not to be answered without the Kyngs commaundement, for so moche as the mater is so high, and of soo grete wyght and poyse. Which writyng there than was radde; the tenour wherof foloweth, in these wortes:

His Pedigree and Title.

11. IT is not to be forgotten, that the right noble and wurthy Prince, Henry Kyng of Englonde the third, had issue and lefully gate Edward his first begoten son, born at Westm' the xv Kalends of Juyll, in the Vigill of Saint Marc and Marcollian, the yere of oure Lord mcccxxxix, and Edmond his secund goten son, which was born on Seint Marcell day, the yere of oure Lord mcccxlvi. The which Edward, after the deth of the seid Kyng Henry his Fader, entitled and called Kyng Edward the first, had issue Edward his first begoten son, entitled and called after the deceffe of the seid first Edward his Fader, Kyng Edward the secund: Which had issue and lefully gate the right noble and honorable Prynce Edward the thirde, true and undoubted Kyng of Englonde and of Fraunce, and Lord of Ireland: Which Edward the third, true and undoubted Kyng of Englonde and of Fraunce, and Lord of Ireland, had issue and lefully gate Edward his first begoten son Prince of Wales; William Hatfeld secund begoten, Leonell third begoten Duc of Clarence, John of Gaunte fourth begoten Duc of Lancastre, Edmond Langley fyft goten Duc of York; Thomas Wodeslok sixt goten Duc of Gloucestre, and William Wyndesore the seventh goten: The seid Edward Prynce of Wales, which dyed in the lyf of the seid Edward Kyng, had issue and lefully gate Richard, the which succeeded the same Edward Kyng his Grauntre in Roiall dignite, entitled and called Kyng Richard the secund, and died without issue. William Hatfeld the secund goten son of the seid Edward dyed withoute issue. Leonell the third goten son of the same Edward Kyng Duc of Clarence; had issue and lefully gate Phelippe his oonly Doughter and heire; which, by the sacrament of matrymony copled unto Edmund Mortymer Erle of Marche, had issue and lefully bare Rogier Mortymer Erle of Marche; hit son and heire; which Roger Erle of Marche had issue and lefully gate Edmund Erle of Marche, Rogier Mortymer, Anne and Alianore; which Edmund, Roger and Alianore dyed withoute issue; and the seid Anne, under the sacrament of matrymony copled unto Richard Erle of Cambrigge; the son of the seid Edmund Langley, the fyft goten son of the seid Kyng Edward as it is afore specified, had issue and lefully bare Richard Plantaginet, commonly called Duc of York. The seid John of Gaunt; the fourth goten son of the seid Kyng Edward, and the younger brother of the seid Leonell, had issue and lefully gate Henry Erle of Derby, which incontynent after the tyme that the seid Kyng Richard resigned the Coronas of the seid Realmes, and the seid Lordship of Ireland, unrightwisely entred uppon the same, then beyng on lyve Edmund Mortymer Erle of Marche, son to Roger Mortymer Erle of Marche, son and heire of the said Phelippe, Doughter and heire of the seid Sir Leonell, the third son of the seid Kyng Edward the third; to the which Edmund, the right and title of the seid Coronas and Lordship by lawe and custume belonged. To the which Richard Duc of York, as sonne to Anne, Doughter to Rogier Mortymer Erle of Marche, son and heire to the seid Phelippe, Doughter and heire to the seid Leonell, the third goten son of the seid Kyng Edward the third, the right, title, dignite roiall and estate, of the Coronas of the Realmes of Englonde and of Fraunce, and of the Lordship and Land of Ireland, of right, lawe; and custume apperteyneth and belongeth; afore eny issue of the seid John of Gaunt, the fourth goten son of the same Kyng Edward.

12. AND afterward, the xvii day of October, the xth day of this present Parlement, the seid Chaunceller shewed and declared to the seid Lordes Spirituelx and Temporelx beyng in the same Parlement, howe that the Counseill of the seid Duc of York, gretely desired to have answer of such writyng, as uppon the xvi day of October last passed was put into this present Parlement, on the behalf of the seid Duc, and theruppon asked the seid Lordes, what they thought was to be doon in that matier. To the which question it was answered and thought by all the seid Lordes, that the matier was so high and of such wyght, that it was not to eny of the Kynges Subgetts to enter into communication therof, withoute his high commaundement, agreement and assent had therto. And ferthermore, for asmoch as the seid Duc desired and required bref and undelaied answer of the seid writyng, and in eschuyng and avoid-ying of grete and manyfold inconveniences that weren lykly to ensue, yf hasty provision of good answer in that behalf were not had, it was thought and agreed by all the Lordes, that they all shuld goo unto the Kyng, to declare and open the seid mater unto his Highnes, and to understond what his good grace wuld to be doon further therin. And theruppon incontynent all the seid Lordes Spirituelt and Temporelt went to the Kyngs high presence, and therunto opened and declared the seid mater, by the mouth of his said Chaunceller of Englund. And the same matier by the Kynges Highnes herd and conceived; It pleased hym to pray and commaunde all the seid Lordes, that they shuld serche for to fynde in asmuch as in them was, all such thyngs as myght be objeste and leyde ayenst the cleyme and title of the seid Duc. And the seid Lordes besought the Kyng, that he wuld remember hym, yf he myght fynde any resonable matier that myght be objected ayenst the seid cleyme and title, in so moche as his seid Highnes had seen and understonden many dyvers writings and Cronicles. Wheruppon, on the morn the xviii day of October, the xith day of this present Parliament, the forseid Lordes sent for the Kyngs Justices into the Parlement Chambre, to have their avis and Counsell in this behalf, and there delyvered to them the writyng of the cleyme of the seid Duc, and in the Kyngs name gave them straitely in commaundement, sadly to take avisament therin, and to serche and fynde all such objections as myght be leyde ayenst the same, in fortifying of the Kynges right.

Referred to the Justices.

Who refuse to give any Opinion.

Wherunto the same Justices, the Monday, the xx day of Octobr then next ensuyng, for their answer uppon the seid writyng to them delyvered seiden, that they were the Kyngs Justices, and have to determyne such maters as com before them in the lawe, betwene partie and partie, and in such maters as been betwene partie and partie they may not be of Counsell; and sith this mater was betwene the Kyng and the seid Duc of York as two parties, and also it hath not be accusumed to calle the Justices to Counsell in such maters, and in especiall the mater was so high, and touched the Kyngs high estate and regalie, which is above the lawe and passed ther lernyng, wherfore they durst not enter into eny communication therof, for it perteyned to the Lordes of the Kyngs blode, and th'apparage of this his lond, to have communication and medle in such maters; and therefore they humble bysought all the Lordes, to have them utterly excused of eny avyce or Counsell, by them to be yeven in that matier.

And then the seid Lordes, considering the answer of the said Juges, and entending to have the advice and good counsell of all the Kynges Counsellors, sent for all the Kyngs Sergeantes and Attourney, and gave them straight commaundement in the Kyngs name, that they sadly and avisely shuld serche and seke all such thyngs as myght be best and strengest to be allegged for the Kynges availle, in objection and defetyng of the seid title and clayme of the seid Duc.

Wherunto the seid Sergeants and Attourney, the Wednesday than next ensuyng, answered and seiden, that the seid mater was put unto the Kynges Justices; and howe, the Monday then last passed, the same Justices seiden and declared to the seid Lordes, that the seid mater was soo high and of soo grete wight, that it passed their lernyng, and also they durst not entre eny communication in that matier, to yeve eny avyce or Counsell therin; and sith that the seid mater was soo high that it passed the lernyng of the Justices, it must nedes excede their lernyng, and also they durst not entre eny communication in that matier, and prayed and besought all the Lordes to have them excused of yevyng eny avyce or Counsaill therin.

To whome it was answered, by th'avis of all the Lordes, by the seid Chaunceller, that they myght not so be excused, for they were the Kynges particuler Counsellors, and therefore they had their fees and wages. And as to that the seid Sergeants and Attourney seiden, that they were the Kyngs Counsellors in the lawe, in such thyngs as were under his auctorite or by commission, but this mater was above his auctorite, wherin they myght not medle, and humbly besought the said Lordes, to have them excused of yevyng eny Counsaill in that matier: And it was answered agayn, that the Lordes wuld not hold them excused, but let the Kynges Highnes have knowlecche what they seid: And theruppon the seid Chaunceller remembred the Lordes Spirituelt and Temporelt, of the seiynges and excuses of the Justices, and the seiyng and excuses of the Sergeants and Attourney, and also the grete commaundement of the Kynges Highnes that they had, to fynde all such objections as myght be moost myghty, to defend the Kynges right and title, and to defete the title and clayme of the seid Duc of York: And also that the Kyng myght understond, that the seid Lordes diden their true and feithfull devoire and acquitaille in the seid mater, desired all the Lordes, that every of them shuld sey what he cowede sey in fortifying the Kyngs title, and in defetyng of the clayme of the seid Duc. And than it was agreed by all the Lordes, that every Lord shuld have his fredome to sey what he wuld sey, withoute eny reportyng or magre to be had for his seiyng. And theruppon, after the seiyng of all the Lordes, every after other, it was concluded, that the maters and articles hereunder written, shuld be allegged and objeste ayenst the seid clayme and title of the seid Duc.

13. FIRST, it is thought that the Lordes of this lond must nedes calle to their remembraunce, the grete Othes the which they have made to the Kyng our Soverayn Lord, the which may be leyde to the seid Duc of York, and that the Lordes may not breke thoo Othes.

ITEM, it is thought also, that it is to be called to remembraunce, the grete and notable Acts of Parlements, made in dyvers Parlements of dyvers of the Kyngs Progenitours, the which Acts be sufficient and resonable to be leyde ageyn the title of the seid Duc of York: The which Acts been of moche more auctorite than eny Cronycle, and also of auctorite to defete eny manere title made to eny persone.

ITEM, it is thought that ther is to be leyde ageyn the seid title, dyvers entayles made to the heires males as for the Corone of Englund, as it may appere by dyvers Cronicles and Parlements.

ITEM, it is thought yf the seid Duc shuld make eny title or clayme, by the lyne of Sir Leonell, that the same Duc shuld bere the armes of the same Leonell, and not the armes of Edmund Langley late Duc of York.

ITEM, it is to be allegged ageyn the title of the seid Duc, that the tyme that Kyng Henry the fourth toke uppon hym the Corone of Englund, he seid be entred and toke uppon hym the Corone, as right enheriter to Kyng Henry the third, and not as a Conquerour.

14. HERE under folowen the answeres of Richard Plantaginet, called commonly Duc of York &c. to certain raisons and colours alleged as it is said ayenst the matier of his right and title &c.

Furst, where it is said that it is thought that the Lordes must nedes calle to theire remembraunce, the grete Othes which they have made to the Kyng, which may be leyde to the seid Duc, and that they may not breke thoo Othes:

The said Richard answereth and faith, that every man, under the peyne of everlastyng dampnation, is bounden to obeye to the lawe and commaundementes of God, by the which lawe and commaundementes, trouthe and justice owe to bee preferred and observed, and untrouth and injustice leyed apart and repressed; and soo it is, that of this bonde and duetee of obedyence to Godds lawe, noo man may discharge hymself by his owen dede or act, promysse or ooth, for elles of the contrary wold ensue innumerable inconveniences. Wherefore sith it is soo, that the mater of the title and clayme of the seid Richard Plantaginet, is openly true and lawfull, and grounded upon evident trouthe and justice, it foloweth that man shuld have rather consideration to trouthe, right and justice in this mater accordyngly with the wille of the lawe of God, then to any promysse or ooth made by hym into the contrarie; considered namely, that by the lawe and determination of holy Chirche, an oth made by oon persone, unto the prejudice or hurt of an other, contrary to trouthe, justice and charitee, in the which standeth the plenitude and perfection of Godds lawe, is voide and of noon effect, neither in any wise obligatorie; and that the vertu and nature of an ooth is to conferme trouthe, and of noo wise to ympugne it; and over that, that by the ooth of feaute, homage or ligeaunce, noo man is bounden to any inconvenient or unlawfull thyng. And howe bee it that this answer is sufficient to all manner objections that may be made ayenst his clayme and entent in this partie, by reason or occasion of any ooth, yit natheles the seid Richard, for asmuch as the mater of Othes is a mater spirituall, for more declaration of his conscience, honeste, and trouthe in this partie, offreth hymself redy to answer before any Juge spirituall competent, in place and tyme covenable, to all manere of men that any thyng wull purpose ayenst hym in that behalf.

And to shewe clerely, that lawfully, withouten offence of God and conscience, he may clayme and pursue his right, and desire Justice in such forme as he dooth, and that all other persones, and namely the Peres and Lordes of this Reaume may, and by the lawe of God and man aught, to helpe and assiste hym in trouthe and justice, notwithstanding any Ooth of Feaute or other by hym or theym herebefore made.

15. OVERE this, where it is thought also that it is to be called to remembraunce, the grete and notable Acts of Parlement, made in dyvers Parlemtentes of dyvers of the Kynges Progenitours, the which Actes been sufficient to be leyed ayenst the title of the said Duc, and of more auctorite then eny Cronycle, and also of auctorite to defere any manere title made to eny persone:

(m. 3.)

And also where it is seid, that it is to be leyde ayenst the said title, dyvers entailles made to the heires males as for the Corone of Englonde, as it may appere by dyvers Cronicles and Parlemtentes:

The seid Richard Plantaginet answereth and faith, that in trouthe ther been noon such Actes and tailles made by eny Parlement herebefore, as it is surmysed; but oonly in the vith yere of Kyng Herry the fourth, a certayn Acte and Ordynauce was made in a Parlement by hym called, wherein he made the Reaumes of Englonde and Fraunce amonges other, to be unto hym and to the heires of his body comyng, and to his iiiii Sonnes and the heires of thair bodyes comyng, in manere and fourme as it apperith in the same Acte. And yf he myght have obteigned and rejoyced the said Coronas &c. by title of enheritaunce, discent or succession, he neither neded ner wold have desired or made thaim to bee graunted to hym in suche wise, as they be by the seid Acte; the which taketh noo place, neyther is of any force or effect ayenst hym that is right enheriter of the said Coronas, as it accordeth with Godds lawe, and all naturall lawes, howe it bee that all other Actes and Ordenaunces made in the said Parlement and sithen, been good and sufficient ayenst all other persones.

16. ITEM, where it is thought that yf the seid Duc shuld make any title or clayme by the lyne of St Leonell, he shuld bere the armes of the same St Leonell, and not the armes of Edmond Langley late Duke of York:

The seid Duc answereth and faith, that trouthe is, that he myght lawfully have born the armes of the said St Leonell herebefore, and also the same armes that Kyng Edward the third bare, that is to say, the armes of the Reaumes of Englonde and of Fraunce; but he absteyned of beryng of the seid armes, lyke as he absteyned for the tyme, of purposyng and pursuyng of his right and title &c. for causes not unknowen to all this Reaume; for though right for a tyme rest and bee put to silence, yit it roteth not ner shall not perissh.

17. ITEM, where it is allegged ayenst the title of the said Duc, that the said Herry of Derby, at such tyme as he toke upon hym the Corone of Englonde, and that he entred and toke the same Corone upon hym, as right enheriter to Kyng Herry the third, and not as a Conquerour:

The seid Duc therto faith, that such saying of the seid Kyng Herry the fourth, may in noo wise be true, and that the contrary therof, which is trouthe, shall be largely ynough shewed, approved and justified, by sufficient auctorite and matere of record. And over that, that his said saying was oonly to shadowe and colour fraudulently his said unrightwise and violent usurpation, and by that moyen to abuse disceyvably the people stondyng aboute hym.

18. ITEM, the Saturday, the xvii day of this present Parlement, it was shewed unto the Lordes Spirituelx and Temporelx beyng in this present Parlement, by the mouth of the seid Chaunceller, that the seid Duc of York called besily, to have hasty and spedy answer of such maters as touched his title above said; and howe that for asmoche as it is thought by all the Lordes, that the title of the seid Duc can not be defeted, and in eschuyng of the grete inconvenients that may ensue, a meane was founde to save the Kyngs honour and astate, and to apease the seid Duc, yf he wuld; which is this: That the Kyng shall kepe the Coronas, and his astate and dignite Roiall, duryng his lyf; and the seid Duc and his heires to succede hym in the same: exhortyng and steryng all the seid Lordes, that yf eny of theym cowde fynde eny other or better meane, that it myght be shewed. Whereuppon, after sad and ripe communication in this matere had, it was concluded and agreed by all the seid Lordes; that sith it was soo, that the title of the seid Duc of York can not be defeted, and in eschuyng the grete inconvenients that myght ensue, to take the mean above reherfed, the Othes that the seid Lordes had made unto the Kynges Highnes at Coventre, and other places saved, and their consciences therein clerced. And over that, it was agreed by the seid Lordes, that the seid meane shuld be opened and declared to the Kynges Highnes. And forthwith they went towards the Kyng, where he was in his chambre within his palice of Westm'. And in their goyng oute of the Parlement chambre, the seid Chaunceller asked of the seid Lordes, that sith it was soo, that the seid meane shuld be opened by his mouth to the Kyngs good grace, yf they wuld abyde by hym howe so ever that the Kyng toke the mater; and all they answered and seid yee.

All these premisses thus shewed and opened to the Kynges Highnes, he, inspired with the grace of the Holy Goost, and in eschuyng of effusion of Cristen blode, by good and sad deliberation and avyce had with all his Lordes Spirituelx and Temporelx, condescended to accord to be made betwene hym and the seid Duc, and to be auctorized by th'auctorite of this present Parlement. The tenour of which accord hereafter ensueth, in manere and fourme folowyng:

MEMORANDUM, that the xxviiith day of January, the Yere of oure Sovereigne Lord the Kyng the Vth, in the Sterred Chambre at Westmynstre, it was said and declared unto my Lorde of Bedford, by my Lord Chancellor, in the name of the remenant of my Lordes of the Kynges Counsaile, that tyme being there present, that is to witte, th'Erchiebyschop of Canterbury, th'Erchiebyschop of York, the Byshop of Ely, the Bisshop of Bath, the Bisshop of Norwiche, th'Erle of Huntynghdon, th'Erle of Stafford, the Lord Cromewell, the Lord Scrop, the Lord Hungerford, the Lord Tiptot, in substance this that followeth:

FURSTE, after protestation made, that it is in no wyse th'entent of my seide Lordes of the Counsaile, to withdrawe from my seide Lorde of Bedford Worship, Reverence, or eny thyng that thei owe unto him, considering his Birth, and th'astuce that God hath sette hym ynne; but to do hym all Worship, Reverence and ples': it was remembered howe that after the tyme of his last comyng into this Lande, he had made unto the seide Lordes of the Counsaile, many notable, goode and grete exhortations, exhortations, by the which he sturred hem, and also yave hem boldnesse, comfort and assurance, to acquite hem trewely and uprightly unto the Kyng, and unto alle that may be to the gode of hym, and of his Reaumes, the goode Governaille and Reule of hem, and to the observaunce and kepyng of his Lawes, not lettynge so to do for hym ne for noon other persone, as thei woll answer to God and to the Kyng, at suche tyme as yf God wol he shuld come to yeres of discretion; letyng hem fully wete that and thei wolde be oon hole Counsaile for the Kyng as thei oght to be, and that levyng alle parcialtee and indue affection besyde hem, thei wold sit upright, and contende holy to that that myght be for the gode of the Kyng, and of his Lande, not sparing for maugre, indignation or displeaunce of eny Man so to doo, of what estate or condition soever he were; it myght not faile but that with Goddes Grace, the Kyng and his Landes shulde stonde in gode prosperitee; and that the Kyng shulde have a gode rekenyng to ther grete worship when he comes to his yeres of his discretion; nor theyme so disposed, it shulde be in no Mans poaire to let hem; and that on the other behalve, yf they did the contraire, were it the Kyng our Soverayn Lorde that nowe is, or whome that ever God disposed for to be there Soveraine Lorde for the tyme, thagh perauntre thei plesed hym as nowe; and for this tyme, he shuld con hem thenne grete maugre therof, and trust hem the lesse at alle tymes after.

De obedientia Regi debet.

ITEM, after this it was saide on the behalfe as before, howe that my saide Lordes of the Counsaile undrestande, that thei have a Kyng whome and noon other thei knowe; and alwey as long as it shall lyke to God to graunt hym lyfe, wole and awe to knowe, undre God, for their Soveraine Lorde here upon Erthe. Over this thei undrestande, that all other that beth in and of this Lande, fro the highest unto the lowest, of whatever estate, condition or degree that he be, been his liegemen and his Subgittes, and owen to obeye unto hym and to his Lawes.

ITEM, the said Lordes undrestande, that howbeit that the Kyng as nowe be of tendre age, neverthelesse the same auctoritee resteth and is atte this day in his persone, that shall be in hym at eny tyme hereafter, when he shall come, with Goddes Grace, to Yeres of discretion.

ITEM, that forasmuche as the King is nowe of such tendrenesse of age, that by possibilitie of nature he may not in dede Reule ne Governe in his owne persone, and that God ne reson wol that this Lande stande withouten Governauce; for soemuch the execution of the Kynges saide auctoritee, as toward that that belongeth unto the Politique Reule and Governaille of his Lande, and to th'observaunce and kepyng of his Lawes, belongeth unto the Lordes Spirituall and Temporell of his Lande, at suche tyme as thei be assembled in Parlement, or in grete Counsaile; and ellus, hem not being so assembled, unto the Lordes chosen and named to be of his continuel Counsaile, of the whiche my saide Lorde of Bedforde is chiefe, as long as he is in this Lande, and hym not beyng thereynne, my Lorde of Gloucestre yf he be thereynne; the which Counsaile, the Kyng beyng in such tendrenesse of age, represent his persone, as toward execution of the same Politique Reule and Governaille of his Lande, and observaunce and kepyng of his said Lawes, withouten that eny oo persone may or owe ascribe unto hymselfe the said Reule and Governaille; savyng alway unto my saide Lord of Bedforde and of Gloucestre, that that is in especiall reserved and applied unto hem by Act of Parlement, namely, considering the grete daungers and pevills that my saide Lord of Bedford hath, as it is beforesaid, declared, and th'experience of tyme passed hath also shewed, that the said Lordes may for defaulte of the said Reule and Governaille fall in ayenst the Kyng, and rekenyng that thei may be called unto an other day, the which God ne reson ne wald that thei shulde, o lesse then thei had freedom of Counsailling, and of the said execution and Reule.

After alle this in this wyse showed and declared unto my saide Lorde of Bedford, it was finally saide unto hym, that considering alle these thinges abovefaide, forthwythe the demenyng and governaille of his owne persone fro the tyme of his comyng into this Lande, the whiche thei had at alle tymes found accordyng unto the same, thei trusted fully that he in his noble and wyse discretion, felyd in theese matiers above lyke as thei did; beseechynge him as for their herts ease and suertee, and for the gode of this Lande, that he woulde vouchesave to declare unto hem his intent thorynne, lattyng hym ferther wit that thei, as the Kynges Counsaile, sent unto hym to come unto the saide Kynges place of Counsaile, to th'entent to open unto hym the matiers abovefaide.

The which thinges so opened and declared unto my saide Lorde of Bedford, it lyked unto his Lordship to say, that he had wel herde and understande the matiers abovefaide; and that he thanked hem with alle his herte, that hit lust hem so to send unto hym, and for that cause letyng hem wit, that it was unto hym oon of the gretest gladnesse that ever fell to his herte, to see the Kyng, standyng in this tendrenesse of age, to have so saide, so substantiall and so trewe a Counsaile; and after it lyked hym to say unto hem, that he knoweth the King for his Soverayne Lorde, and himselfe for his Liegeman and Subgett to hym, and to his Lawes, accordyng to that that was before rehersed: Howbeit that God hath by way of Byrth made hym nerrer hym then eny other: and that in alle thynges that belongeth unto the Reule of the Lande, and to th'observaunce and kepyng of the Kynges Lawes, and generally in alle thynges that belongeth unto the Kyng and to his estate, he wold be advised, demeaned and ruled by the Lordes of the Counsaile, and obeye unto the Kyng, and to them as for the King, as lowly as the leeste and pourest Subgett that the King had in his Land.

And yf he eny thyng did or attempted, or were disposed to attempt or do in contrarie therof, he wold att all tymes, with as goode herte and wille, be reformed and amended by hem, as eny Man shuld; knowyng this for his duetee, and that hym oght so to do. Over that, offryng hymselfe in alle thynges that by there advices shall mowe be to the gode of the Kyng, and of his Lande, to assist hem, and thereynne yf nede were to lyf and dye; and to put the saide Lordes in more assurance and comfort of his full wyll, as to the kepyng and observaunce of the thynges abovefaide, it lyked unto my saide Lorde of Bedford, of his free wyll, withouten that eny other persone sturred or mooved hym therto, to open the Boke of Evangel' lying in the saide Sterred Chambre, and therto swere by hem, that he wolde trewely observe and kepe the thynges abovefaide, the whiche he had agreed and promitted.

Johan.

Semblably alle the Articles abovefaide, conreignyng Declaration of the Kynges auctoritee and estate, and of the Ligeaunce, Obeysaunce and Subjection, that alle Men that been ynn and of this Reaume, fro the helghest to the lowest, owen att alle tymes unto hym, and to his Lawes; and also howe and to whome th'execution of the Kynges saide auctoritee, hym beyng in this tendrenesse of age, belongeth, in alle that toucheth the Politique Reule and Governaille of his Lande, and th'observaunce th'observaunce and kepyng of his Lawes; that is to say, the 11th, the 111th, the 1111th, and the vth Articles above writen, my saide Lorde of Gloucestre agreed hym to, affermyng hem resonable and just, knowyng the Kyng for his Leige Lord, and hymselfen for his Liege Man; and Subgit to hym, and to his Lawes: Howbeit that God hath by way of Byrthe made hym nerrer hym than eny other, save my Lorde of Bedford his Brother: and that in alle things that belangeth unto the Reule of the Lande, and to th'observaunce and kepyng of the Kynges Lawes, and generally in alle thynges that belangeth to the Kyng and to his estate, he wold be avised, demeted and reuled by the Lordes of the Counsaile, and obeie unto the Kyng, and to theyme as for the Kyng, with alle his herte. And yf he eny thyng did or attempted, or were disposed to attempt or do in contrarie therof, he wol att alle tymes, withe as gode herte and wyll, be reformed and amendid by hem, as enny Man shuld; knowyng this for his duetee, and that hym aght so to do.

Nº 11.
Concerning
the King's Coronation
in France.

THE xvi day of Averill, the forsaide Yere of the Kyng, at the grete and besy Prayer and instance of my Lorde of Gloucestre, and the remnant of the Lordes of the Kynges Counsaile, my Lorde the Cardinal graunted to go over into Fraunce with the Kyng, and to abyde there with hym, and to doo the goode that he may, yf so be that he fynd at his thider commyng, that the Lordes and Capitaines, and other that goo at this tyme also over wth the Kyng, wol be of goode Reule and Governance, and eschewe division and taking parties oon ayenst another, by discention or by ther owen auctoritee; and ellus he protested to come home, and report the cause of his departyng from thens to the K. Counsaile here.

Whereupon it was agreed, that a Prive Seal be sent to the Trear and Chamberlains, to paye hym undre suche conditions, as were expressed in his last paiement, when he went for the Kyng to the Duc of Burgoigne; for his intendaunce to the K. Counsaile in Fraunce, m li. a Quarter or lesse after the rate, or more, for the tyme of his abyding there.

Item, it was accorded and assured theire, that for no manner Querell that is, or may be, betwix Lorde and Lorde, or Partie and Partie, no Bendes be taken, ne Ryotes ne gaderyng of people made; but that yf itte happen, that God defende, that enny dissention or debate fall betwix Lorde and Lorde, the remenant of the Lordes, anon as y^t dissention commyth to there heryng or knowleche, shall, all other thynges left, labour and entende to the redresse and appeyng of the saide dissention or debate, and that withouten holdyng of partialtee, or more favour shewyng to oone partie thenne other, to stond hool, unit and knyght togedres; and the seid Lordes bytwix whome peradventure suche division shall falle, to be assured to stande in hiegh and lowe, to the redresse and reule of the remenant of the Lordes.

Whereupon at Canterbury even forthwith, my Lordes Duc of Norfolk, and th'Erles of Huntingdon and of Warr', emong otheir theire beyng present, at th'instance of my saide Lorde the Cardinal, made assurance in the handes of my Lorde of Glouc', that for eny manere dissention or querell fallen, or to falle, whiche Gode forbode, hereafter betwix hem, or betwix theire Frendes, Kyn or Servantz, either here or in Fraunce, or betwix theym, ther Servautes, and the Servautes of the Ducs of Bedford, or of Bourgoigne, or of enny other of the Kynges Allies or Subgittes, thei shall not take amendes therof, ne punyschon of the trespass, as of their owen hede or auctoritee; but yf thei fynd hem hurt or greved, thei shall lette the Kynges Counsaile have knowleche of their gryef, and that of such resonable redresse as the seid Counsaile shall ordeyne or purveye for heym in the cas, thei shall holde hem consent.

And

And over this, it was appoynted and concluded there, that suche matiers as for the well of the Kyng shall be passed in France by the Counsaillers of Englande about the Kynges persone, may be holden as passed and doon by oone accorde and advis, bothe here and theire, and in lykewyse to be undrestanden and holden of matiers to be passed by the Counsaillers here, olesse thenne the matiers be of suche weight, that of necessitee thei woll asken an hool cōication and advis of alle the Kynges Counsaillers, bothe here and theire togiddres, personely or by wryting.

Item, it was advised and thought, that as toward the Regencie of France occupied theire by my Lorde of Bedford, that anon atte the Kynges commyng into his Reaume of France, that name and Office shuld cesse; and as to the Lordships of Alanson, Anjou and Mayne, and other suche as my Lorde of Bedford desereth of the Kyng yifte, and occupieth in France; it was thought and advised, that he shuld occupie hem still: and yf so be that peradventure it shall lyke hereafter to the K. to resume the saide Lordshippes and Landes into his handes, and occupie hem, or dispose hem as it shall lyke unto hym; that thenne he recompensyng my saide Lorde of Bedford his Uncle with other Lordeshippes and Landes, into the value of xl. m. Francs yerely, may doo in that cas as it shall lyke unto hym with the saide Lordeshippes of Alanson, Anjou and Mayne, and other so occupied in Fraunce by my saide Lorde of Bedford.

Item, it was there assured and accorded, that noon of the grete Officers ne Counsaillers sworne to the Kynges Counsaile, shall be remoeved or chaunged, withouten th'advis and assent of bothe the Counsaillers, as wel of hem that be here, as of hem aboute the Kynges persone in France; ne noon mo added, ne put unto the seid Counsaile, withoute the same advis and assent.

Item, that in Benefices, Offices, and other thynges belonging to the Kynges yift and disposition, when thei voiden, suche as be the Kynges owen Servautes, or have served his Fadre or Graund Fadre, be preferred unto hem, lyke as it hath be promitted oft and assured afore this; so that thei have no cause to complayne, as it is said thei doo dayly, for lak of Fotheryng.

Item, that when it shall be written to the Court by the Kyng, recommendyng enny of his Subgittes to Byshopryches, that furst th'advis be had and wylt of both the Counsaillers, as well there as here, or then enny Lettre passe for enny manere persone either undre the Kynges Prive Seal or his Signet, in eschewyng of variance in wrytyng, and other inconvenientes that may ensue of the contrarie.

Lecti fuerunt presentes Articuli & repetiti, ac pro bonis expedientibus & rationabilibus affirmati, & iterum concordati per Dños de Consil' apud Westm', primo die Maii, anno 19º, p'sentib' Dñis Cardinal', Ebor' Canc', Elien', Rossen', Bathon', Epis, Tiptot, Cromewell & Hungerford, Baronib' ac Custode Priyai Sigilli, se subscribentib' ut supra.

Here followeth the Articles in general, that my Lordes &c. appoynted to go into France desireth to be instructed of.

FURSTE, to knowe what Power shall be sent into France for suretee of the persone of oure Sovereigne Lorde, and for the continuance of his Werre theire.

ITEM, whether this Power shall goo alle at oons, and whenne, or ellus at divers tymes, and what at eche tyne, and whenne.

Howbeit that neither my Lorde of Gloucestre, ne noon of the Lordes of the Counsaile here, wol, can, ne dar, take upon hem, ne sittith hym to doo, to lymitte the Power nedfull for seuretee of the Kynges persone theire; nevertheless the nombre and power of Men of Armes, and Archiers, such as is in enywyse possible now to be had here atte the charge of this Lande, is appoynted, the which is knowne to the Lordes, and the tyne of there with hodyng and departyng from hens.

ITEM, that whether oure Sovereigne Lord shall affre his furste Powaire comen, yf so be that his Powaire comme not at oons, labouré in his persone toward his Citee of Rayns, for to take his Corone or noo; considering that yf he might with Goddes Grace obtene his Corone, with the obeisaunce that he hath of his Citee of Paris, hit were a grete confirmation of obeisaunce toward hym, of alle his Subgittes theire.

Hit is not thought to my saide Lorde of Gloucestre, and Lordes of the Kynges Counsaile, possible unto hem, to advise here as nowe eny certayne tyne, reul or manere, of the Kynges moost behovefull goyng up for his Coronation to his Citee of Reyns; but that it must rather dwelle in the discretions of my Lordes of Bedford, the Cardinal, and other of his Bloode and of his Counsaile theire, that may knowe and confide the circumstances and meens necessarie and behovefull there-to; but as ferr furth as my saide Lorde of Gloucestre, and other of the Kynges Counsaile here, can thynk as nowe, it seemeth necessarie the Towne of Lovers, and the saide Citee of Reyns to be had, and provision for the seure and save garde of his Cuntree behinde hym to be maade, before the Kynges goyng up to the same Reyns for his Coronation.

ITEM, yf so be that the Duc of Burgoigne, or the Duc of Savoye, or bothe, or eny other, send unto the Kyng, offryng hym service yf he wol take the felde and labouré to the acheevyng of his Corone, so that thei nowe knowe the nombre; and that the nombre be lych here Estates that thei shall serve hym with, and aue oure Sovereain Lordes despens; what answer shall be yeven unto hem in this cas.

Reservyng alway and remittyng th'appoyntement and the answer of this Article, and alle other that touche the demenyng of the Kynges persone, to my Lordes of Bedford, of Glouc', the Cardinal, and other of his Bloode; it is thought to other of the Lordes of the Kynges Counsaile here, the service of the Ducs of Burgoigne, of Savoye, or eny other notable persone behovefull to the Kyng, not to be refused or leyde besyde, but to be hadde in suche wyse, as it shall mowe be accorded betwix the Kyng and hem, to the leest charge of the Kyng, be it by yifte of Landes or otherwyse, so as it shall mowe be borne, and as grete and large seuretee to be had of hem as may bee gotten, for th'accomplishyng of suche service as thei shall agree hem to.

ITEM, it is to knowe what goode shall be sent, or ellus where it may be had, for the keepyng of Men of Armes in the Royaume of Fraunce, to the nombre of vi c (peres, and howe the paiement shall be continued, and for what tyne.

Responſio.

My Lorde of Glouceſtre, and the Lordes that abyden here of the Kynges Counſaile, have answered by Mouthe to my ſaide Lorde Cardinal, and other that be ordeint to goe over of the Kynges Counſeil, and made hem promeſſe ſuche as withe Goddes Grace ſhall be duely and truly execut with effect.

ITEM, for the Paiement of the Eſtates of the Parlement, of the Chambre of the Accountes, and of other Officers of the Reyaume of Fraunce; conſidering that of that Lande arryſeth no commoditee to paye hem with:

Responſio.

That many and divers Cauſes and Conſiderations, ſuffre not the Paiement remembred in the ſaid Article to be made at the charge of this Lande, but that thei muſt be made of gode, ſuche as may be gotten theire by meens ordinarie or extraordinary, as Fines of Perdon, or other ſuche as the Kynges Counſaile theire can beſt fynde or advyſe; moderyng aleway the nombre of the Perſones and Eſtates of the Parlement, and Chambre of Accomptes, and of other Officers, as the neceſſite and ſervice of the Kyng and his obeſſance for the tyme axeth and requirerh.

ITEM, whether oure Sovereigne Lord ſhall ayent the ende of the halve Yere retourne ayein into Englande, or abyde ſtill theire.

Responſio.

Reſervyng alway and remitting th'apoyntement and anſwere of this Article &c. yf goode maye not be gotten theer nor here; ne of bothe the Landes togiddre, for the holdyng and kepyng of Puiſſance there, ſuch as nedeth for the ſuertee of the Kynges perſone, that thenne his commyng hidre is neceſſarie to be diſpoſed for ayent ſuch tyme as ſhall be thought expedient to the ſaide Lordes of his Blode, and of his Counſeil theire; the whiche havyng knowleche of goode, ſuche as may be had here, and alſo there, ſhall mowe certifye hidre thier adviſes and ententes as toward the ſaide Kyng's commyng home, and howe and whenne, and of proviſion neceſſarie to be made or had therfore.

ITEM, yf he ſhall retourne ayein, w^t ordenance ſhal be made for kepyng of that Lande behynd hym.

ITEM, yf my Lorde of Bedford wol not abyde behynde the Kyng, what Eſtate ſhall abyde theire for the Governauce of that Lande, and what Auſtoritee and Poaire he ſhall have; and yf my Lord of Bedford wol abyde, what Auſtoritee and Poaire ſhal he have, conſidering that as into this tyme he wol no Commiſſion take.

Responſio.

That in cas of adviſ and apoyntement taken of the Kynges retourne hidre ayein, it is thought that the Kyng muſt leave a ſufficient Lieutenant behynd hym, for the Governauce and Reule of that Lande, havyng ſuche Auſtoritee, and alſo Counſaile apoynted, as ſhall be thought neceſſarie and behovefull for the goode Governaille therof; the whiche for many notorye and evident reſons and cauſes, muſt firſte be offred to my Lorde of Bedford, he to be ſturred and entreted therto by alle wayes and meens reſonable; and yf he wol not entende thereto, that then ſome other notable Lorde and Capitaine to be entreted to the ſame. It alwey purveyed and ſeen, that as ſer furth as it ſhall mowe be doon, Juſtice be ſet up and ſtabliſhed theire, and proviſion for the continuance therof, before the Kynges departyng; and that alſo it be ordeynt for the deſenſe, ſeure and ſave garde of the ſaide Lande, and for Puiſſance of Men, as ſer furth as it can or may be adviſed and borne neceſſarie for the ſame.

ITEM, yf the Cardinal Saint Croſs come for to trete Pees or Trieues, to what manere fourme of Trieues ſhall be condeſcended; for as of Pees it ſeemeth there ne may noon be concluded, conſidering the tenderneſſe of the Kynges Eage.

ITEM, conſidering that the nature of the leſt Pees wol, that no Partie ſhall inire tractatum Pacis ſine conſenſu trium ſtatuum utriuſq; Regni, and that th'Eſtates of Fraunce wol not condeſcende to no traitee of Trieues, but ononlyth to traitee of Pees, what ſhall be doon in this cas.

In cas the Cardinall of Seint Croix, or other, come downe to trete the Pees, it is thought that his commyng to the ſaide entente, and his generale exhortation to the ſame, muſt agreeably be received and commended, and entended unto as by way of communying and of heryng; and that conſidering that in this tendre age of the Kyng, a Pees may not ſeurely be apoynted ne concluded for his partie, yf a goode and reſonable True be deſired, ſturred and offred, it is thought that it ſhulde be entended unto; namely, oleſſe thenne before that Men can ſee weyes and the meenes poſſible and likely, of further conduyt of the Werre to the Kynges availe and behove.

ITEM, forasmuche as hit appiereth wel that this Reaume may nought here the Charges of a continuelle Werre, whether for countenance of the Werre there, yif noon other reſonable meene of reſte may be had, hit ſeme nought behovefull the Kyng for to yeve the Landes and Places that Men mowe gete, to ſuche as mowen gete hem; and thei, yif eny ſuche may be founden, to make the Werre withoute charge of this Lande, as ferre as it may be eſchueid.

Hit is thought to my Lorde of Glouceſtre, to whoſe advis the remenant of the Counſell agree hem, that conſidering that it is not poſſible, as ferre forth as Men can ſee, the Werre in the Royaume of France to be conduit at th'expences and charge of this Reaume here, ne of the Kyngs obeſſance there; that, to th'entente of kepyng of the K. obeſſance there now, and getting of the remenant, it is expedient to graunt, that his Subgittes that ſhall gete at there oune charge and labour, Places and Landes occupied by the Kynges Rebelles, ſhal have hem and rejoyſe hem as there oune; hit alwey provided, that yf it may be thought that Men wol ſo labour to the Conqueſte, that thei ſo gete eny Places or Landes, for the whiche it ſhall lyke the K. to recompenſe hem in other Places or Landes within the Kinges obeſſance of eagal value, hit ſhall be levefull the K. ſo to doo; and thei in that caſe bounden to receyve the recompensation, and to leve to the Kynges wille the ſaid Places ſo gotten by hem; finally nevertheleſſe remittinge the appointment and reule hereof to my Lordes of Bedford, the Cardinall, and other of the Kynges Blode there.

ITEM, forasmuche as there is grete multitude of Walled Townes and Caſtelx in Normandie and in France, as well of the Kynges as of other Menns, and the kepyng of ſo many is grete charge to the Londe, and oppreſſion to the People, hit ſemeth neceſſaire to be adviſed wch ſhall be kept, and which ſhall be diſempared, as wel of the Kynges as of other Menns; for thogh other Menns Fortreſſes be not kepte at the Kynges charge, yit thei lyve upon the poevere people, and yif thei were taken with the Enemyes, thei ſhulde be cauſe of diſtruction of the Kynges Contree.

Hit is well agreed here, that Fortreſſes and Places be diſempared, ſuche as ſhall be thought to the Kyng, by th'adviz of his Counſaile there, unbehovefull, perilous or harmefull to be kept or to ſtande.

ITEM,

ITEM, whether the Kynge shall drawe up to Parys or noo, for eny request or desire that thei of Parys couthe make.

Responſio.

As in ſubſtance ſemblable to th'answere yeven to the furſte partie of the thridde Article, addyng therto that in cas that God lyke to diſpoſe the Kynges goyng up to Reyns, it is thoght expedient that he take his way thiderward by his Toune of Parys, yf noon other cauſe or occaſion let it, ſuche as may not be foreſeen nor known here as at this tyme.

MY right doubted and Soverain Lorde, lyke it your Hieghnesse to be remembred, how that not long agoo, for dyscharge of my selven as towarde any defaulte or blame that by any suggestion or information, suche as y ne have yeve matere ne cause to, myghte to the hurt of my name or fame, or withdraught of your gracious benevolence and favour, without my desert, be layede upon me, touchyng my demenyng in the governance of youre Reaume of Fraunce, I declared myselff and my demenyng in youre saide Reaume of France, by a writeyng departed into certaine Articles; the whiche wryting with all humbleste y presented to youre Hieghnesse. In the whiche, for declaration of the conduyt of the Were in youre saide Reaume for the tyme of youre noble Regne, hit is contened and is soche; that after the decesse of my Lorde youre Fadre, to whoos Soule God doo mercy, by the Grace of God, and by the gode labour and diligence of youre trewe Men and Servants there, and me oon of hem, willyng to doo the goode that I coude, divers great and faire dayes and victories were had there for you and in your querrell upon your enemys, and your obeissance theire notably enlargissed and encrefed, and brought thereto greet partie of Boye, Champaigne, Aucerroys, Douziont, Nyvernoys, Maconnoys, Anjou, Maine; and alle thing there prospered for you, till the tyme of the Siege of Orleans, taken in hand God knoweth by what advis. At the whiche tyme, after the adventure fallen to the persone of my Cousin of Salysbury, whome God affoyle, there felle by the hand of God as it semeth, a greet strook upon youre people that was assembled there in greet nombre, caused in grete partie as y trowe, of lakke of sadde beleve, and of unlevefull doubte that thei hadde of a disciple and lyme of the feende called the Pucelle, that used fals enchauntements and forcerie; the which strook and discomfiture, nought oonly lessed in grete partie the nombre of your people there, but as well withdrewe the courage of the remenant in merveilous wyse, and couraged your adverse partie and enemys to assemble hem forthwith in grete nombre, to the which divers of youre greete Citees and Townes, as Reyns, Troyes, Chalons, Laon, Sens, Provins, Senlis, Laigny, Creyl, Beauvais, and the substaunce of the Countres of Champaigne, Brye, Beauvoisin, and also a partie of Picardie, yolde here withoute resistance, or abode of socours; howe were it that incontinent after the saide discomfiture of Orleans, I doubtyng of theire discourages, sent to thame divers your Conseillers of the same Cuntrees, offryng hem garnison of Men and Socours. And over this with thoo that were left me of youre people, forthwith the refreshyng of the retenue that myne Oncle the Cardinal had made for the Chirche, the whiche was notable, and cam thider in full goode seison, sette and kept my selff o yee feelde divers days ayens youre ennemys, that purposed to have geten the remenaunt of the Cuntree. I redy there to have employed my persone in youre querell, and to the sauvaion of youre Lande, and of youre trewe Subgetts there, and didde therto the goode that y coude, so that with Godds grace, it shal not be founden, that ye have lost in my defaulte the said Citees, Townes or Cuntrees; the losse and departyng of the whiche, and the neghing and dayly prees of the Werre therby to youre gode Toune of Parys, and to the remenant of your Cuntree of France, youre Subgitts of the same neither myghte till theire Lands, ne theire Viegnes, nor occupie hem with bestaille, ner otherwyse, ner ynneto hemselfe, ner outter any kyns of Merchaundises, hath dryven hem to an extreme povertie, suche as thei may not long abyde; as it is not unknowen unto youre Counseil that was with youwe yowe but late agoon in youre faide Reaume; and causeth em that with all her hertes desire to kepe her trouthes and obeissance unto you, to aske of yowe for non power of thayme selfe more chargeable and abydyng socours than ever thay didde before, and made me, with other of your Counsaile of youre Reaume of Fraunce, to assemble at Caleys, with my Brother and other Lordes of youre Counsaile of this Lande; and for lakke of Comfort there emonges other causes that moeved me, I cam into this youre Reaume, to shewe this unto youre Hieghnesse, to th'entent of provision to be hadde therupon, suche as it shulde lyke you by th'advys of youre Counseil here to ordein. So that y, in whoos commyng hidre and labour here towards youre Hieghnesse thay have sette the hope and trust of thaire reliefe and comfort, shuld moue at my commyng thidre, playnely reporte unto hem the provision ordenned for thayme, and assure hem thereof; the whiche yf it be not soo doon, thay shal bee dispeired, and take occasion every man to purveye for himself, in the best wyse that God wol yve him grace. And howbeit that y have made therefore the instance that y coude, as wel in youre faide Parlement, as in youre greet Counseil, and plainely for myne acquitaille, and discharge of my blame or defaulte, declared the no- roire jupardie of lost of youre said Cuntre, unlesse thanne hit bee substantially pourveyed fore before my depart- yng: Nevertheles, as fer forth as y know, the moens therof have nought as yit be founde, to my full grete hevynesse, God knoweth. And forsomuche y consi- deryng that it hath lyked God to preferre me afore all other yit born, as in nieghnesse to youre Hieghnesse, and that nature byndeth me therefore, namely with the gode and gracious Lordeshipp that y finde in you, semblably to neighe you by wey of alle trewe affection and desir of service, suche as y may bere, and doo to an erthely Man, as I so doo God I calle to witenesse; the whiche affection must lede me to tendre with alle my possibilitie, all that may bee to the worship and wele of youre Hieghnes; and with this also howe greete a pitee it were that that noble Reaume, for getyng and kepyng of whiche my Lorde that was youre Fadre, to whose Soule God doe mercy, and other many noble Princes, Lordes, Knights and Squiers, and other persones in full greet nombre, have payed hir lyves, many that been yit on lyve have shedde thaire blode, more pre- cious to hem thanne eny temporel gode, and spended thaire dayes, and thaire noble and trewe labours; and as well thai, as in general the Commune of this Lande, have also spended an infinite goode: And over this, the continuance of myne abode in your service there, fro the begynnyng of youre Regne till now, to th'entent to doo my trewe power, as y have doo God knoweth, to the kepyng therof to youre behove, to the tyme that yt shall like our Lorde to bryng you to Yeres, in the whiche it shal lyke youre Hieghnesse to gouverne it in your persone; for the whiche tyme of myne abode, I have founde the multitude of youre Subgitts there, as well disposed and as desirous to kepe thaire faith and trouthe to youre Hieghnesse as ever was people, and to me as lovyng and as kinde; so that the lost of your said Cuntree and Subgetts, that God ne wol, shulde cause me a perpetuel herts hevynesse and sorrow; and also the grete and the tendre love and affection that I have founde in youre Subgetts of this Lande, in every degree and estat, at alle tymes, and in especial sith my last comyng thertoo, and so I trust alwayes to fynd, the which standeth not in soo greet wele and plantee of goode as I have seen hem doo before this tyme, and as I wolde with all my hert for the goode of you and of thame that thay didde, whose ease therfore and discharge as towards berdon in their good I desire, and shal defire in all that I goodely can and may; therefore to shewe the unfayned tendernesse and love y^e I bere to the wele and prosperitee of you, and of bothe youre Reaumes, I shall make to youre Hieghnesse an offre in a certaine manere and forme, and therewith yve you, undre youre noble correccion, certain advyses possible as me thenke withouten grete difficultee to be executed, greetly serving to the provision nedeful for youre faide Royaume of Fraunce, and to ease of the peuple of this youre Reaume.

In shewyng and declaration of the whiche, please it youre Hieghnesse to have knowlache, howe that yt liked my Lorde youre Fadre, whom God assille; a notable tyme before his deceffe, to make a fessment of a grete and notable partie of the Duchie of Lancastre, and of other Landes, to myne Oncle the Cardinal, and other certaine persones, to th'entent that of the Reve- nues that shulde growe therof after his deceffe, thei shulde fulfille his ordonnance and wille, to be declared unto hem in that behalve; the which so doon, thayme oweth by the same wille, to make to youre Hieghnesse estat of the faide partie of the Duchie, and other Landes; the whiche Wil of my faide Lorde youre Fadre, as to- wards the charges to bee executed of the forsaide Reve- nues, is nere hande fulfilled as I am lerned; so that and it lyke my faide Oncle and Fessges, upon goode and seure provision to be made to thayme, for execution of the reste of the faide Wille nought yit fulfilled, to make you deliverance of the faide fessment, the yerely Reve- nue therof, and of that partie of the Duchie that is now in youre hande, applyed hooly to the defence of youre Reaume of Fraunce, forthwith that that may growe of abateyng of inutile and voluntarie charges that the said parties of the Duchie bere at this day, shal with litel more mowe suffice to the paiement of cc Speres and the Bowes a Yere.

Over this I remembre me, how that in youre last Parlement, it liked youre Hieghnes, by th'advys of iii Estates of this Lande, to wille me to dispose me to dwelle and entend to youre Counseil in this Lande, as fer forth as y goodely myght, with the wele of youre Landes and Lordeshippis outwards; to the whiche, and to alle youre goode plesirs and commandements, it was, is, and ever shall bee, myne entente to obeye you, and to doo you in bothe youre Reaumes alle the service that I can and may, namely in your tendre age, and whiles I may somewhat besturr me, ever trustyng that yt shall lyke youre Lordship hereafter to knowe it, and confidre it, and to have me the more tendrely recom- mended to youre goode grace, at suche tyme hereafter as I shall not soo wel mowe doo you service as I may now, the whiche my desire of doying of service to youre Hieghnes, causeth me the more studiously to seeke the wayes and meens by the whiche I shall mowe soo doo, to the leest charge of you and of youre Sub- gitts of bothe youre Reaumes; emonges the whiche wayes over that oon that y have rehersed before, oon other is this.

Soche is, that for execution of youre faide desire and myne, it shal nede me at divers tymes to goo into your Reaume of Fraunce, and to retourne ayein into this youre Reaume, whenne and as the cas of youre behove shal require it; and that paraventure it ne shal not bee at alle tymes youre ease, whenne it shal nede me so to goo or come, to ordeine me therfore suche a feliship out of this Lande, as me shal nede to be accompaigned of, for seuretee of my persone: In eschuyng of the whyche charge, and yit in fortheryng of the defense of your Reaume of Fraunce, it may thus be purveyed yif it lyke you. Withoute youre Towne and Castel of Ca- lays, for the whyche I have nowe endented, there bee in youre Marchies of Caleys divers other places of
yours,

youres, and in eche of hem a resonable nombre of Souldours, of the whyche yf I had the kepyng and the rule, I coude, myghte and wolde, sette thereynne for the governance of hem undrenetheme, perſones notables, ſuche as be expert in the Werre, and as I knowe wele may and can rule ſuche a felſhip as ſhulde be committed to hem in the places. The whiche or ſome of hem, as wel as other that I ſhall sette undre me in youre ſaide Towne and Caſtel of Caleyſ, with ſuche parte of the Souldours of youre ſaide Towne and Marchies, as by my diſcrecon ſhall mowe for the tyme be ſpained, ſhall, ſo y^e gode paiement bee made hem, mowe be ready at my warnyng and commandement, nought oonly to accompaigne me goyng into youre ſaide Countree of Fraunce, or retournyng, but alſo to be ſent into youre Reaume of Fraunce or Duchie of Normande, in caſ of a ſodaine neceſſite or behove, and doo you redy ſervice in other divers manere of wyſes: the whiche youre Marchies and places I offre me therefore to take the Governance of, to no gretter charge to you for the tyme of Pees, but atte the ſame that they be atte this day; rebateyng in the wages therof, for the proufite and commoditees that growe to you of the ſaide Marchies, as muche as ye bee answered of at this day; Savyng and reſervyng alway to my Brother of Glouceſtre, the termes that he hath by youre L^{tes} Patentees in your Caſtel and Lordſhip of Guynes.

Over this, I remembre me howe that at the tyme of youre beyng in your Reaume of Fraunce, it lyked you of youre gode grace more thanne for my deſert, for ſupportation of myne eſtate and charges, to grante me by youre L^{tes} Patentees, greete and notable ſommes, to be paid me yerely of the Revenues of youre Duchie of Normandie, in the wyſe as youre ſaide L^{tes} purporte: the whyche ſommes, I conſideryng the grete neceſſitee of both your Royaumes, nought deptyng from the be-neſite or right that y have by youre ſaide L^{tes} Patentees, offre with goode wille and agree me, to bee converted and employed to the deſenſe and kepyng of your ſaide Reaume of Fraunce, frome Michaelmaſſe next comyng for the terme of 11 yere, by the wayes and meens to be praſtiſſed by ſuche of youre Counſeil as it ſhal lyke you to appoynte therto; ſo alwayes that the ſaide other 11 wayes and meens before opened by me, be firſte paſſed and agreed unto, and put in effectuelle execucon; by the whiche wayes and meens, and my preſent offre deuely executed, I truſt to God that your ſaid Royaume of Fraunce ſhal for the tyme mowe be releved of 1111 c. Speres and the Bowes Yerely; half by the meene of this Lande as is above rehersed, and the tother half by the meene of this my preſent offre: In ſuche wyſe that hit ſhal not gretely charge youre Subgitts of this Reaume. So that it like oure Lord to kepe youre people there from ſodaine adventure; the whiche reſteth oonly in his handes.

The viiith day of Juyn, the yere of the Kyng oure Sovereign Lorde the xiith. To the firſte Article of advertiſement and adviſe withynne written, after long replication made by my Lordes the Cardinal of Canterbury and the Lord Hungerford, enſeoffez &c.

Finalli, thei deſired to be adviſed and to give here anſwere on the morwe in the matiere withynne written. And ſoe, the xvth day of the ſaide Moneth, it was asked by my ſeid Lord Cardinal, in the name of hym and of the Feoffees, whether the Kyng and the Lordes there preſent, coude thinke that the forſeid Feoffees, myght with trewe conſcience and here wordely worſhippes, leave their eſtate; conſideryng that the Kynges prayers and deſires, whos ſoule God reſte, ne be not yet per-fourmed. To the whiche queſtion the Lordes there preſent answered alle as of oon accord: That if ſo were, that ſeuretee were made by the Kyng that now is to the ſeid Feoffees, of ſufficeant assignementz, ſuche as thei wolde resonably accorde unto, for the fullfylling and performing of the Kyng' Chanterie, and paiement of his dettes, it was thought unto hem, that the ſaid Feoffees myght with conſcience, and worſhip unhurt, for ſo grete a gode to the Kyng as this is, conforme hem to th'advise and deſire of my ſeid Lord of Bedford. The whiche adviſe of the Lordes, the ſeid Feoffees deſired for to been enacted of Record.

And ſo fynally, for the wele of the Kyng, comfort of the Reaume of Fraunce, and more deſcharge of the po-vere people of this Lande, the ſeid Feoffees, as thei that wolden that there demeenyng in the ſeid Feoffment were known and open to alle the world, deſired that by the Kyng, certain Lordes of his Counſeil be deputt to ſee the Bokes of Recept, and of th'adminiſtracon of the Revenues of the Landes of the Feoffment in al godely haſte, and therupon to make reporte in the next Parle-ment how that thei finde: And if ſo be that it ap-piere, that ſuche good as hath be reiſed of the Landes of the ſeid Feoffment, have be wel and trewely em-ployed in diſcharge of the ſoule of the Kyng that is de-ceded, whiche ſoule God reſte, and in perſourmyng of his deſires, and nought to their uſe nor profit; thanne that in the ſame Parlement, and by auctoritee therof, her ſeid demenyng of the ſeid Revenues of the Feoffa-ment be declared as for good and vailable; and thei, here heires and executours, to be deſcharged ayenſt the Kyng and his heires for evermore, as for eny thyng that may touche the forſeid Feoffment, or any thyng de-pendent of the ſame. And ſo the ſeid Feoffees wol and graunte, that with that that thei be ſufficeantly paid and content of th'assignementz that been to hem maad, for monoye borwed of them of the ſeid Feoffment, that the Kyng have and rejoise the Revenues that ſhal growe of the ſeid Feoffment after Mighelmaſſe day next comyng, by the handes of th'Officers and Deputees of the ſeid Feoffees: So that proclamacon ſhal be made betwix this and the next Parlement, that every man that wol ask dette for Houſhold, Chambre, Wardrobe, the Kynges Werkes, or for Moneye borwed, bringe in to the ſeid Feoffees the groundes that thei aſket by. And if it may appiere that the ſommes of th'assigne-mentz, ne of the Revenues of this yere, ne wol not ſuffiſe for paiement of the Kings dettes afore rehersed; and for perſourmyng of his Chaunterie, and of his Tombes; thanne the Kyng to make to the ſeid Feoffees for the reſt that ſhall be founde due, ſuche assigne-ment and agreement as the ſeid Feoffees wol be content with. And if ſo bee that the ſomme of th'assignementz made to the ſaid Feoffees, and the Revenues of this yere, wol amounte to gretter ſomme thenne the ſomme of the dettes and making of the ſaid Chaunterie and Tombes, thenne the reſidue to be paid up to the Kyng, and to be applied to ſuche uſe as my Lord of Bedford hath deſired. The whiche thinges doon, my ſeid Lordes Cardinal Archebiſhopp, Lord Hungerford, and the re-menant of the Feoffees, wol make eſtat of all the Landes that thei ſtand feoffed ynne by the Kyng the Fadre, unto oure Sovereign Lord that now is; that is to ſey, of that that is of Fee taile, in Fee taile, and of that that is of Fee ſimple, in Fee ſimple. The ſeid my Lordes of the Feoffment making proteſtacon, that if it ſo bee that that matiere that is opened by my ſeid Lord of Bedford for the ſyndyng of ec Speres in Fraunce at the charge of France, take effect, after the ſourme of his offre, this thaire aſſent and grante for to ſtande in ſtrengthe, and ellus to be as voide and of noe valeure.

To the seconde Article contained in the seide Bill of Avertisementz of my Lord of Bedford, concerning the endentyng with the Kyng for the places in the Marchies of Picardie &c.

It is graunted and passed by the Kyng and his Counseil, in wise as it is contened in certaine Endentures maad betwix the Kyng and my seid Lord of Bedford upon the same.

And as to the thirdd Article, the Kyng and all my Lordes of his Counseil thanken my seid Lord of Bedford entirely with alle their hertis, of his lovyng and gentil offre; and praien hym that th'effect of the seid Article may be put in execucon, in all the haste that it may be godely for the wele of the Kyng, and to th'entent expressed in the same.

The xvth day ensuyng, it was accorded by the seid Lordes of the Counseil, that like as my forseid Lordes then Feoffees, have at th'instance of my Lord of Bedford graunted unto the Kyng that nowe is, the Revenues of the Landes that thei stande enfeoffed in, from Michelmesse next comyng, unto a certaine oeps, and undre certain condicions above expressed; that for the wele of the Kyng, and to the same oeps expressed in the Act before written, alle the Revenues of the remenant of the seid Duchie, beyng at this day in the Kynges handes, except the charges necessaire, be employed and expended, and to noon other oeps; accordyng to th'entent withynne written of my seid Lord of Bedford.

Undre protestacion made, that it is not the entent of eny of the Lordes of the Kyngs Counseil here present, eny thyng to advise, counsaile, require or do, that myght be prejudicial to the Kyngs Regalie, Preeminence, Dignitee, or restreint of his freedom or power.

FOR as muche as it may be supposed that suche mocions and sturynges apart as have be made to the Kyng but late agoo, myght semblabli be made unto hym hereafter; his humble and trew Subgittz and Counseillers that been here present, advisen; that it be seide unto hym on their behalves, that how it be that God of his Grace have endewed the Kyng with as grete understanding and felyng, as evere thei sawe or knewe in any Prince, or other persone of his age, whereof thei thanke God with alle their hertes, as thei have grete matere and cause; nevertheless, to quite hem truly to God, to the Kyng, and to his Poeples, thei dar nat take upon hem to put hym in conceit or opinion, that he is as yit endewed with so grete felyng, knowleche and wisdom, the whiche must in grete parte growe of experience, ne with so grete foresight and discrecon to departe and chese, namely in materes of grete weight and difficultee, that it is expedient and behoveful to hym and to his poeple, fro that that myght be prejudicial, pillous and harmeful to hym or to his poeple, that it shuld be expedient to hym as yit change the rule and governance that afore this in his tendre eage hath by his grete Counseil in Parlement, and ellus, be advised and appointed for the goode and seuretee of his noble persone and of this Lande. And for soe muche thei with al humbleste beseeche the Kyng, that yf any suche sturynges or mocions be maad to hym aparte, in thynges of greet weight and substance, and in especialliche as may touche his noble persone and estate, or changyng of the forseid reule, the whiche, as thei truste to God, shall be founde that hath be to the Kyng right profitable and behovefull, that it lyke to the Kyng nocht lightly to agree him or assent therto; but that til be communicacon, and be heryng, seying and experience, he be further growen and encreased in felyng and knowleche of that that belongeth to gode reule and governaile, and of foresight, suche as is nedeful to departe and chese that that is behoveful to hym, and to his Lande, fro the contraire; to the whiche knowleche and felyng with Gods grace he is like to reche as sone as any it is possible by nature, and as it hath be seen in any persone afore this tyme; it like, if any suche mocion be maad to hym, before then he agree him, or assente to any suche mocion or sturyng, to take therupon th'advise of his grete Counseil, or his continuel Counseil for the tyme beyng, in the wise as hit hath liked hym to doo but late agoo; the whiche manere of his demenvng, as it is trowed and thought to his seid beseechers, shall be oon of the grettest seuretee that can be advised, to the wele and prosperitee of his noble estate, and all his Landes and Subgitts.

17. PRAYEN the Cōens in this present Parlement; that where in the tyme of auncien prosperitee of the Reame of Englonde, whan the fame of renommy of the honour and pollicie therof reched into all Cristen Londes, sechyng and desiryng the Commodite therof; the makynge of Cloth of the Wolles of the growyng of the seid Reame, and the ordre and conveyance therof, in the labour of every man and woman required to the seid makynge, was of such trouth, synesse and parfitnesse, that the seid Cloth excelled the Cloth of any other Region or Cuntre, and was desired and caried into all Reames of Cristendome; by the which makynge, every man and woman of resonable age unoccupied, desired to be put, and were put unto labour of some membre of the seid makynge; wherby ydelnes, and the braunches of mysghovernance, riot, and vices growyng fro it, were hated, rebuked and exiled. And where many yeres it hath been, and in thees dayes it is soo, that the makynge of Cloth, and the membres and requisites therunto, have and be of such fraude, deceyte and untrouth, that in other Londes it is not oonly had and reputed unworthy, but also brent, to the grete rebuke of the seid Reame; and by th'occasion therof, the Cloth of other straunge Londes been brought in grete quantite into the same Reame, and there sold of high and excessive price; shewyng clerely th'offence, defaute and untrouth, in makynge of Cloth of the seid Wolle; the speciall cause and grounde of the grete ydelnes, and of the myschief therof nowe reigntyng in the seid Reame. And therefore, for the remotion of such ydelnes, and the preferment of Labour and Occupacion, such as hath been used by the makynge of the seid Cloth, it may please unto youre noble grace, by the advis and assent of the Lordes Spūelx and Temporelx, in the seid Parlement assembled, and by auctorite of the same Parlement, to ordeyn and stablysh certeyn Statutes and Ordenaunces, in manere and forme folowyng.

And in case the same Cloth be lenger in mesure then the seid xxiiii yerdes, and the ynches, then the byer therof shal pay to the seller, for that that exceedeth such mesure of xxiiii yerdes, after the rate of the mesure above ordeyned.

VOL. V.

Also to ordeyn and stablysh, that every Cloth of Kersey, to be made and put to sale after the seid fest, after almanere rakkyng, streynyng or teyntyng therof, be parfitly wette, and after that wetyng redy to the sale, hold and conteigne in length xviii yerdes, and the ynches, as it is aboveseid, and in brede a yerde and the nayle.

And that every of the seid Clothes and half Clothes, Streyte and Kersey, of the seid length and brede, and also of the parfitnesse aforeseid, be from the fest of Seint Martyn in wynter next comyng, sealed with a double prynt of Leede at the ende therof, in witnes and record of the forseid true length, brede and parfitnes. in eadem Cedula recitatis sibi impositis continens, sub hiis verbis sequentibus.

THE XXI day of January, the yere of oure Lord MCCCCXLIII, it is remembred, that Henry Beauford
late Duc of Somerset, nowe dede, was for dyvers grete, cruell, and haynous offences by hym committed, declared and specified in an Aste made in the Parlement hold at Westm^r the 1111th day of Novembr^e, the first yere of the reigne of oure Soverayn Lord Kyng Edward the 1111th, atteynted of Treason by the seid Aste, in maner and fourme as in the same Aste is conteyned.
And that the haynouse, horribile and crueltee of his offences in the Aste specified notwithstanding, it pleased oure seid Soverayne Lord, rather of more joy enclined to the pollicie of peas, unyte and rest of his Lande, then to motions of frealte in nature ayenst the seid
Henry, in cause of his said offences, laboured hym selfe into forgetilnes therof, and resceyved and accepted hym
to grace, by the meanes of his pretended humblenes, mekenes and lowely suete, after that toke hym in favour and favourable chierie, shewyng unto hym bounteously and largely the pleintith of his good Lordship, and not oonly to hym, but his Servautes, to th^eentent that therby, of verray gentilnes and the noble honour that oweth to be grounded in every Gentilman, he shuld have been stablISHED in ferme feith and trouth unto his Highnes, accordyng to his seid duete of Ligeaunce: and of more habundant grace, by an Aste made in this present Parlement, by assent of the Lordes Spirituell and Temporell beyng in the same, and by auctorite therof, restored hym to his name, state, stile, honour and dig-nite. And yet netherles the seid Henry, ayenst nature of gentilnes and all humanite, remaynyng secretly and fraudeulently in his old infaciate and cruell malice, to the subversion of the rightwis governaunce of this Lond, and to the destruction therof, sodenly by secrete and pryvat weyes, toke his viage prively oute of the parties of North Wales, unto he came into the Shire of Northumberland, where Henry late called Kyng of Eng-lond, the grete Ennemye and Adversarie of oure seid Soverayn Lord, kept traiterously and rebelliously the Kyng oure seid Soverayne Lordes Castels of Bambo-rough, Dunstanborough and Alnewyke; to the same Henry there adhered, and with hym confedered to the distruction of oure seid Soverayn Lord by bataill; and to the same entent and effeste, at Exham in the seid Shire, the viii day of May, in the seid 1111th yere, rered werre ayenst oure said Soverayne Lord. And where 29. Rauf Percy Knyght, after his longe abode in Rebellion, was also by oure seid Soverayne Lord taken benignely unto his grace, resceyved after that grete bnfitez of his Highnes, and taken in grete trust; yet netherles after that, unkyndely and falsely ayenst the duete of his Ligeaunce, the seid Castels of Bamburgh and Dunstanburgh, to his kepyng delyvered by oure seid Soverayne Lord, falsely and traiterously delyvered unto the seid Henry, the Kynges Ennemye; and after that, in the fest of Seint Marc the Evangelist, in the seid 1111th yere, at Heggelaymore in the seid Shire of Northumberlond, ayenst oure seid Soverayne Lord rered werre, purposyng then and there his distruction. And where Humfrey Nevile Knyght, atteinted of Treason by the seid Aste made the 1111th day of Novembr^e aforesaid, for the causes in the same Aste specified, was and abode after the same Atteyndre in prison in the Toure of London, in the kepyng of the Constable of the same Toure, brake the same prison, eskaped fro thens into the seid Shire of Northumberland, and there made commotion of people ayenst oure seid Soverayn Lord.

It pleased not for that the Kyng oure seid Soverayn
Lord, havyng respecste to his birthe, uppon his lowely and humble sute made unto his Mageste Royall, to resceyve hym to grace, and by his Lfes Patentes under his Grete Seall, to pardon unto hym all trespasses and other offences, accordyng to the tenour of the same Lfes Patentes; the which and the grete and large bountie shewed unto hym right largely by oure seid Soverayn Lord, and also the trust that his seid Mageste toke hym in notwithstanding, the same Humfrey, as an unkynde and innaturall man, and fals to his Liege Mageste, traiterously adhered unto the seid Henry late called Kyng, and with hym, and in his fals and usurped quarell, fro the first day of Aprill, the 1111th yere of the reigne of oure seid Soverayn Lord, at Bamburgh forseid, toke hoole and full parte, purposyng and ymagenyng there and then the distruction of his moost noble persone, alteration and alienation of the Dñation of his said Reame, into the power and Dñation of the Enne-myes of oure seid Soverayne Lord. Item, where Henry Bellingham Knyght, atteinted of Treason by the seid Aste, made in the seid Parlement holden the seid 1111th day of Novembr^e, for dyvers causes in the same specified;
It pleased the Kynges seid good grace, to graunte to hym his Lfes under his Grete Seall, of pardon of the same Treason, and of other offences. And that notwithstanding, the same Henry Bellingham, and also Thomas Philip Knyght, William Lermouth late of Bam-burgh in the Counte of Northumberland Gentilman, Thomas Elwyk late of the same Gentilman, John Rat-ford late of the Shire of Lincoln Gentilman, John Purcas late of London Yoman, Philippe Castell late of Pembroke in South Wales Gentilman, Archebold Ridley late of Langley in the Counte of Northumberland Gentilman, Gilbert Ridley late of the same Gentilman,

Northumberland Gentilman, John a Whyntell late of Naward in the Counte of Cumberland Yoman, and Alisaundre Belingham late of Burnalshet in the Counte of Westmerlⁱ Gentilman, the last day of May, in the seid 1111th yere, at Bamburgh and other places, many tymes synne, hath adhered unto the seid Henry called late Kyng, and hym assisted, socoured and helped, in his said fals and contrarious quarell, entendyng, purposyng and compassyng distruction and deith of oure seid Soverayne Lord. Also where Edmond Beauford and John Beauford, brethern of the seid Henry Beauford, William Cary Knyght, otherwise called William Caree Knyght, John Gower late of Clopham in the Counte of Surr^e Squier, John Yates late of Norwiche Gentilman, John Floril late of Cloford in the Counte of Somersⁱ Gentilman, and Thomas Philipp late of Ree
in the parisshe of Quyddesley in the Counte of Glouc^e, offended heretofore ayenst their Liege Magestie, after that they were accepted unto the Kynges grace, and gentilly, lawefully and rightwysly entreted, without ri-gour or violence. And yet netherles, of their mere and extreme malice, have by secrete, subtile and privat meanes, withdrawn theym oute of this Lond, adheryng unto Margaret late called Quene of Englond, and to her malicious, fals and traiterous opinyon, to the subversion and alteration of the seid Dñation, assentyng, purposyng, and ymagenyng therby the distruction of oure

And where also William Stok, late of Warmyngton in the Counte of North Knyght, and Robert Myrfyn, late of Anesworth in the Counte of Kent Squier, to the same entent have adhered unto the seid Henry late called Kyng, and hym in his said fals and traitorous purpose, trayterously helped, comforted and assented, unto the distruction of oure seid Soverayne Lord. Item, where Rouland Kirkeby, late of Urlerston in Fournes in the Shire of Lancast' Gentilman, submittyng hymself to the Kyng oure Soverayn Lord Subget and Liegeman, sworn bodely so to persever and contynue; after that resorted to the seid Henry late called Kyng, and the seid Margaret, and them in their traitours and fals opynions aforeseid favoring, socoryng and maynteynyng, and continually hedirto the same Henry resciving and kepyng fro place to place, and so abidith and remayneth in obstinacie of malicious rebellion, purposyng, ymagenyng and compassyng withoute cessyng traiterously the fynall distruction of oure seid Soverayn Lord, and the same alienation and alteration of the seid Dñacion. And where Philip Mauncell, late of Oxenwiche in Gowers Land in South Wales Squier, Hopkyn ap Rys, late of the Parish of Llanganalough in Gower aforeseid Gentilman, and Lewys ap Rethergh ap Rees, late of Eststradesfere in the Counte of Kermerdyn in Walis, Munk, have ayenst their feith and Liegeaunce, the 1111th day of Marche, the first yere of the reigne of oure seid Soverayne Lord, and dyvers tymes synne, at a place called Dryffryn in Kermerdyn shire in South Wales, stured, laboured and provoked, Margarete late called Quene of Englonde, Edward her son late called Prince of Wales, and Jasper late Erle of Pembroke, Rebelles and Ennemyes unto oure seid Soverayne Lord, to entre into his Reame of Englonde, with grete bataill to arrere werre ayenst his estate within this seid Reame, to conquere the same fro the possession and obeysaunce of oure seid Soverayn Lord, and to depose hym of his Roiall Estate, Corone and Dignite, and to distroye his moost noble Personne and Subgettes. And also where the Kyng is lawfully and rightwisly entitled to the Castell of Hardlough, in the Shire of Merionnyth in North Wales, and to have the possession, rule and governaunce therof, as parcell of his Principallte of Wales; David ap Jeuan ap Eyneon, late of Hardlough forseid Gentilman, and Reynold ap Gryffith ap Pletheü Gentilman, have with grete myght, continually syn the seid 1111th day of Marche, the seid fyrst yere, hiderto traitourly kept the same Castell oute of his possession, to th'entent that the seid Henry late called Kyng Henry the fixte, the Kynges grete Ennemye and Rebelle, and the seid Margarete late called Quene of Englonde, and Edward her son late called Prynce, and other the Kynges Ennemyes, Rebelles and Traitours, shuld there have their entre into this Reame, to subdue hit oute of the Kynges possession, rule and governaunce, and to distroye his moost Roiall personne; and to the same effecte, have not oonly there syn the seid 1111th day of Marche, made commotions and gaderynges ayenst his Estate, Corone and Dignite, but also traitourly resceyved, kept and supported, Thomas Danyell Squier, and John Dowbegyng Gentilman, atteinted of high Treason, and laboured, provoked and stered, the seid Henry, Margaret and Edward, and other the Kynges Ennemyes and Traytours, to have entred into this seid Reame.

56. SHEWEN and besechen mekely, the men of the Craft of Horners enfranchised in the Cite of London, compleynyng theym ageyns the Kynges Ennemyes of his Reame of Fraunce, and of other Nations, repairyng into this Reame of Englonde. And also by the sufferance of such biyng and caryng over the See of Hornes unwrought, there can not be founde a pleasaunt nor a faire Horne in all the Crafte, for the Kyng, nor for noo Lord, such as they were wont to have, for noo money; which myschiefs tofore reherfed, been the verray mean that your seid Besechers may not have their livyng, nor be occupied, to synde theym self, their wyfes, their children and their servautes, and here the other charges that longe to theym daily in this Londe.

24. BE it remembred, that the xvii day of Maye, the viii yere of the Kynges noble reigne above said, the Kyng sitting in his See royall in this present Parlement, beyng then present the Lordes Spirituell and Temporell, and also the Commons comen for the Communalte of this Londe: It was shewed by the Kynges commaundement, and in his name, by the mouthe of the Right Reverent Fader in God the Bishop of Bathe and Welles, Chaunceller of Englonde, unto the seid Lordes and Commons, that Justice was grounde well and rote of all prosperite, peas and pollityke rule of every Reame, wheruppon all the Lawes of the world been grounde and sette, which resteth in thre; that is to sey, the Lawe of God, Lawe of nature, and posityve Lawe; and by seying of all Philosophers, felicity or peas in every Reame, is evermore caused of Justice, as it appereth by probabill persuasions of Philosophers. Wherefore first he asked, what is Justice? Justice is, every persone to doo his Office that he is put yn accordyng to his astate or degre; and as for this Londe, it is understoud that it stondeth by iii estates, and above that oon principall; that is to witte, Lordes Spirituell, Lordes Temporell, and Commons, and over that, State Riall above, as oure Soverayn Lorde the Kyng, which had yeven unto hym in commaundement to sey unto theym, that his entent synall was to minstre Lawe and Justice, and to plante, fixe, and sette peas thorough all this his Reame, by th'advise of his Lordes Spirituell and Temporell, and also entended to provyde an outward pease for the defence and suerte of this Reame. But first that it was to be remembred, the state and condition that this Reame stode yn, other then it didde at the tyme of the Kyngs entre to use and take uppon hym his right and title, as verray and rightfull Kyng of Englonde; for at that tyme this Londe was full naked and bareyn of Justice, the Peas not kepte, nor Lawes duely mynstred within the same, and was also spoiled of the Crowne of Fraunce, the Duchies of Normandy, Gascoyn and Gyen, and also with enmyte envyrouded and leyde aboute on every syde, as with Denmark, Spayn, Scotlonde, Bretayn, and other parties, and also with oure old and auncient Ennemyes of Fraunce, and howe it was then, he reported hym unto theym, they understode it well ynowe, for it apperith at iye, and shewed it self, thanked be all myghty God. And what the Kyng hath done to the perfourmyng of his seid entent, he declared that howe first, his seid Highnes had laboured a Stablisshement and Peas in his owne Reame, and also he had concluded with the Kyng of Spayne a Liege and perpetuell Pease, with entrecourse of Marchaundise, also a Peas and a Liege with the Kyng of Denmark, and entrecourse of Marchaundise, also an Amyte and entrecours of Marchaundise with his olde frendes of Almayn, also a Peas with Scotlonde for 1 Wynter, also an Amyte and Liege with entrecours of Marchaundise taken with the Kyng of Naples, and also that howe it was in good way for a Lege and Amyte with entrecourse of Merchaundise to be taken with the Kyng of Arogon; which had been doon or that tyme, yf the Ambassiatours of Arogon had had full and sufficient power, which he supposed shuld be resourmed in short tyme: And over that, had made an Amyte and Confederation with that high and myghty Prynce, the Duke of Burgoyne, which shuld wedde the Lady Margarete the Kynges Suster, and also an Amyte and Confederacion with the Duke of Bretayne, which two Dukes been the myghtyest Prynces that holden of the Crowne of Fraunce. All which Labours, Confederacions and Conclusions, he had labored and born on his grete cost and charge, aswell by sendyng oute of Ambassiatours, as in receivyng of Ambassiatours for the same, forthe-with grete and notable rewardes mony wayes; and all these Labours and matiers he had used and done at his propre charge, as meanes to a principall entent, that is to sey, to mynnyshe and lesse the power of his olde and auncient Adversary of Fraunce, the Frenshe Kyng, wherby his seid Highnes shuld mowe the lightyer and rather recovere his right and title to the Crowne and Londe of Fraunce, and possession of the same. Wherefore his seid Highnes was fully sette and purposed, with the myght and helpe of Almyghty God, and with advise and assistens of his Lordes Spirituell and Temporell,

and also of the Common of this Londe, to procede and perfourme his seid principall entent, for the defence of this Londe, that is to sey, to goo over the See into Fraunce, and to subdue his grete Rebelle and Adversary Lowes, usurpaunt Kyng of the same, and to recovere and enjoy the title and possession of the seid Reame of Fraunce, forthwith his Duchies and Lordships of Normandie, Gascoyn, Guyfen, and other; and to that ende and purpose, his Highnes is dailly called uppon, and also writen and send unto by outward Prynces, as the Duke of Burgoyn, which was oon of the moost myghtyest Princez of the world that bereth no crowne, and the Duke of Bretayn, and other, seiying and promitting that and he wold come and procede unto the recovere of his seid right and title, they wold goo and labour with hym in their owne persones, for the recovere of the same, at their costes and expenses; for they sey and certifie dailly unto the Kynges Highnesse, that in their conceytes, there was never noon of the Kynges progenitours or predeceffours that ever had such a convenient season for the recovere therof as he then had, yf it were used in tyme. Wheruppon they harken, and the tyme were not used, they must provide for theym self; for certeyn it is tho Prynces be mortall, and have noo issue male, and what chaunge or casuelte of the world myght fall, yf the same were not used while there were oportunitie, God knoweth; for it is the seiying of wyse men, that convenient tyme and expedient, wold alwey be used and not lost; for tyme is a grete thyng in avauntage, and better it were to prevente the tyme, and occupie the seid Adversary at home, than to suffre hym to entre this Londe, and occupie us here: for douteles and the Kyng goo not thider, his seid Adversary wold come hyder. And what pollecy wolde thern, he reported hym unto their wysdomes, desirying the seid Lordes Spirituell and Temporell, and Commons, considering the premisses, and the state that the Londe then stode yn, and that as whose seieth the Kyng had then but oon enemy, that is to sey, the Frenshe Kyng, from whome the Kyng oure seid Soverayn Lord had drawn away by meanes the myghtyest Prynces that helde of his seid Adversary, as it hath been above reherfed, and specially as a meane to his seid principall entent, had labored a mariage to be had betwixt the seid Duke of Burgoyn, and his Suster, which mater amonges many of the Lordes Spirituell and Temporell, in his Counseill late hold at Coventre was shewed and declared, which mater the Kyngs Highnes, be cause they were then present more plener in nombre, entended then to open and declare unto theym by his owne mouth, and also his entent and disposition for the recovere of his seid title and right to the Crowne of Fraunce, to yeve their sad advise and Counseill unto hym in that behalf: Considering moreover and remembryng in their grete wysdomes, his age and habilite, and also the grete corage and fervens that he had to the defence of this his Londe, and that he wolde spende his tyme in his daies to the honour of the Londe, and worship of God, as heretofore his noble progenitours had done: Considering also the disposition of the people of this Lond, howe that they must be occupied, and also that the disposicion and entent of his seid Adversary was to londe, and entre this Reame, and howe God hadde marked and sette the hertes of his frendes straunge Prynces outward to assiste hym, which dailly wrote and sent unto hym for the same, it was mervelous to thynk uppon; and therefore yf the tyme were not used, peradventure tho that then were fryndes myght chaunge into enemyes, which were to grete a losse. These causes and thinges, and meny other, moeved the Kynges Highnes, so that he might have th'assistens of the iii estates of this Lond, and that every of theym wold doo his office and duete, to procede and folowe the recovere of his Reame of Fraunce, and Lordships be yonde the See, for the wele, fuerre, peas and defence of this Lond, with the grace of God.

The Proclamation is long, and must have leyser and tyme, in case the trouth shuld be proved, the which to your wisdomes shall playnly appere: It must be proved by indifferent persones, wherfore yf it please you to geve me resonable layser, I shall prove that Y have not offended the Kyngs intent conteyned in the seid Proclamation, ne hurte noon other persone that ought to take any availe by the same.

Also, where as dyvers of my Maisters of this House, thynk that my confession of the ix d. ob. shuld condempne my self, I will prove sufficiently afore your Maisterships, that Y owe to have the seid ix d. ob., by reason of my ferme, as the Kyngs propre goodes belonging to his Corone, withoute eny wrong doon to any persone in takyng of the same: the premises considered, I besech you all my Maisters, to take such direction as shall accorde with Goddes pleasure, worship to you all, and as the trouth may be best knownen.

THE Copy, after which The Rolls or Records of Parliament have been printed, was collated with the Original Rolls, the Lacunæ therein filled up, and several Marginal Titles supplied where wanting, by the Rev^d Mr. Philip Morant (deceased), and John Topham of Lincoln's-Inn Esq. down to the second Year of the Reign of Hen. VI.—And after that Period, the same Service has been performed by Thomas Astle Esq. Keeper of the Records at the Tower, and the said Mr. Topham.—They likewise transcribed the Petitiones in Parlamento, and selected the other Parliamentary Matter which was found on the Pat. & Cl. Rolls, and also in Public Offices and private Collections.—And, for the Preservation of the Transcripts, and that Recourse may be had to them at any future Time when Occasion may require, they have, pursuant to an Order of the House of Peers, been deposited in the British Museum, by the Rev^d Dr. John Strachey (one of His Majesty's Chaplains in Ordinary), who corrected the Press during the Printing of the Rotuli Parliamentorum, Petitiones, & Placita in Parlamento.

IN some few Instances, where the Imperfections of the Original were evidently owing to the Incorrectness of the Writer of the Record, the Print has been secured from the Charge of Inaccuracy, by means of a Marginal Note. There are however, beside those of which Notice has been taken, innumerable Words and Passages, which, although they perfectly correspond with the Copy, may possibly, on account of the peculiar Mode of Spelling, or the Incompleteness or Obscurity of the Sense, be suspected of being inaccurately printed. And it is particularly to be observed, with regard to the Petitiones in Parlamento, printed from Sir Matthew Hale's MSS., that the Original Petitions not being extant, nor any other Copy of them to be met with, and, consequently, no Authorities now existing, which could justify the Correction of even the most apparent Blunders, the Imperfections of that Transcript have been necessarily retained.

In order, therefore, to give the Work its proper Authenticity, it has been thought expedient to collect those Instances in which the Print differs from the Copy: So that it may be understood, that whatever is not distinguished by a Marginal Note, or otherwise pointed out as an Erratum, is the real and original Reading, however singular the Orthography may be, or how defective soever the Sense.
